U.S. Boosts Navy Power Off Formosa

WASHINGTON—The U.S. strengthened its naval might off Formosa amid new Red Chinese shelling today as three heavy warships steamed to join the 7th Fleet.

Apparently attempting to deter the Reds from invading offshore Nationalist islands the U.S. sent:

- The heavy cruiser Los Angeles from Long Beach, Calif. today;
- The aircraft carrier Midway from Pearl Harbor Thursday;
- The carrier Essex and four destroyers from the Mediterranean Wednesday.

The 7th Fleet—already totaling 66 ships—is on alert standing. It has been conducting war exercises with Nationalist Premier Chiang Kai-shek's forces.

QUEMOY ALERT has been established by Vice-Admiral Wallace M. Beasley, commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet. Fleet stands by as Red China invasion threatens Formosa.

'Perfect Hit' In Target Area

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio said tonight two dogs have been landed safely from a space rocket that reached an altitude of 281 miles.

The broadcast said the dogs were aboard a one-stage geophysical rocket launched in the Soviet Union Aug. 27. The dogs are in good shape the broadcast said.

'Daisy' Threatens Nova Scotia

HALIFAX (CP)—Weather office here said today hurricane Daisy is expected to veer eastward, bringing gales and heavy rain to Nova Scotia tonight but missing the rest of the Maritimes.

Daisy was reported sweeping north along the New England coast at between 25 and 30 miles an hour. It was expected to turn east-northeast and increase in forward speed later today.

IKE SUMMONS AIDE FOR TALK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower summoned acting secretary of state Christian A. Herter to the White House today and conferred with him on Formosa.

'On Your Own' Says U.K. Paper

LONDON (Reuters)—The Manchester Guardian says the United States would be "on its own" if it backed Nationalist China in defence of the offshore islands in the Formosa Strait.

Private MLAs Uninvited On PGE Run

Private MLAs in the B.C. legislature will not be invited to travel on the inaugural train marking extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Dawson Creek in the Peace River district on Sept. 30, Premier Bennett said today.

Session Extended

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (CP) — Governor Orval Faubus signed a resolution today extending the special session of the Arkansas legislature until Jan. 10 when the next regular sitting begins.

Special Cabin

The dogs were enclosed in a special hermetically-sealed cabin.

Total weight of the dogs plus the equipment carried by the rocket was 1,690 kilograms (3,725 pounds).

Defence Blasts 'Trial by Gossip' In Sommers Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Defence lawyer J. R. Nicholson wound up the case for his timber executive client in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial today, saying many people had already decided the case on the basis of rumor and gossip.

Virginia School To Enrol Negroes

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Norfolk school board, complying with an 18-month-old federal court order to end racial segregation, announced today it will enrol 17 Negroes in white schools.

Not Criminal

Thursday, the lawyer said that Gray may have acted "imprudently and unwisely" but was not a criminal nor guilty of criminal acts.

Virginia School To Enrol Negroes

Under Virginia's program of resistance to integration, a school that is integrated is automatically closed.

Governor J. Lindsay Almond Jr. was not immediately available for comment on today's developments.

Everfield 'Schemer'

Eversfield's credibility was one of the key issues, the lawyer said, and in the eyes of the defence he was nothing less than "a schemer, a blackmailer and a liar."

Fire victim Mrs. Violet Drinkwater, 33, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital early today, six hours after she was found slumped on the floor between the living room and dining room of the family home, 1127 Bay.

'Hot' Dow Chasing Leaders

BY DOUG PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

POINT GREY GOLF CLUB —Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., was making his run at the leaders at noon today in the second round of the B.C. Centennial Open golf tournament.

Finsterwald, one stroke behind the leading quartet of Al Balding and Gerry Magee, both of Toronto, Koichi Ono of Japan, and Texan Fred Hawkins, with his opening round of 69 Thursday, boiled the rain-soaked course on the front nine.

He had a five-under-par 32 at the turn and was six under at the 12th.

Souchak Close

Burly ex-football star Mike Souchak, also one stroke off the pace with a 69 Thursday, stayed on Finsterwald's heels by trimming four strokes from par over his first 10 holes today despite a bogey five on the eighth.

The all-night rain has softened the drought-hard layout and the talented pros are able to make their approach shots hold on the tricky greens, a source of trouble in the opening round.

RCAF Pilot Killed

Fishpacker Badly Holed

VANCOUVER (CP)—The six-foot fishpacker Allaverdy, owned by J. H. Todd and Son of Victoria was reported badly holed in Seymour Narrows Thursday while en route to Vancouver with 75 tons of salmon.

Dag, Jordan Agree UN Force No Use

AMMAN (Reuters)—Dag Hammarskjöld and the Jordanian government today announced they were in agreement that neither a United Nations military force nor a border observation group would be adequate to protect the country's independence.

Heaviest Shelling

The Chinese Communists stepped up their artillery attack on the Tan Islets in Amoy Bay today, hurling a blistering 7,120 shells into the 136 Nationalist-held acres in one hour.

The concentration of fire was the heaviest in the nearly four years of skirmishing in the Formosa Strait.

American officials said today a new Peiping threat will weigh heavily in any decision by President Eisenhower on sending U.S. forces against any Red Chinese invaders in the Formosa Strait.

The state department was so impressed by Peiping's statement that it issued a hands-off warning to the Chinese Communists Thursday.

U.S. Pledge

The United States is pledged by treaty to defend the big Nationalist island of Formosa and the nearby Pescadore Islands, about 100 miles across the strait from the China mainland.

Congress left it up to Eisenhower to decide whether any Red Chinese attack on Quemoy and Matsu, small islands closer to the mainland, was the start of an attack on Formosa and the Pescadores.

If Eisenhower decided it was, his next step could not be to oppose it with the U.S. 7th fleet and other American military power.

This, in part, is what Peiping Radio said, as Red guns pounded Quemoy and Matsu in a continuing record bombardment.

"The Chinese People's Liberation Army is determined to liberate the fatherland's territory of Taiwan (Formosa) and the coastal islands."

Toughest Threat

The radio called on Nationalist defenders of Quemoy to surrender, saying "the island is doomed... a landing is imminent."

U.S. officials said this is probably the toughest such statement yet made by the Chinese. But Eisenhower Wednesday refused to be drawn out on whether Quemoy and Matsu should be defended by U.S. forces. He said that this was a military decision which could not be made until after the event—that is, any assault on the offshore islands.

59 Cars Held Up

DETROIT (AP)—Production of 1959 Chrysler and Buick cars was slowed today by wildcat strikes that made idle some 18,000 auto workers.

OL' VIC SAYS:

Bet there's a lot o' folks envy them dogs, gittin' even 280 miles out o' Russia.

On Your Own

"This is strictly a railroad proposition," he said when asked if CCF leader Robert Strachan and members of the House outside the cabinet would be included in the list of invited guests.

"No private MLAs will be invited," he replied. "Only the cabinet and those immediately connected with the railway."

The premier said the presidents of North American Railroads including the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific are expected to be aboard the train.

"Because of his deliberate vagueness then and ever since, then, the Nationalists have been able to reinforce Quemoy and the United States cannot now disregard what happens there."

The board said it took the action contrary to what all its members and the superintendent of schools honestly and sincerely believe is in the best interests of the Negro children, the children in the affected schools and the public in general.

The 17 Negroes had been rejected for admission to white schools earlier on the ground that their presence would cause racial tensions.

The school board told Hoffman that after reconsidering the cases of the other 134 applicants it had decided not to enrol them.

Immediately after the board's announcement, lawyer W. R. C. Cocke told Judge Hoffman a

Defence Blasts 'Trial by Gossip' In Sommers Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Defence lawyer J. R. Nicholson wound up the case for his timber executive client in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial today, saying many people had already decided the case on the basis of rumor and gossip.

Summing up to the jury for Pacific Coast Services president H. W. Gray, Mr. Nicholson said the public had been regaled for months with stories about the case because it involved a minister of the Crown, former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

This was one reason, he said, why jury trials were valuable. It was the jurors' duty to decide the issue, not on rumor and gossip, but on the facts.

The lawyer again attacked the credibility of the chief Crown witness, former Pacific bookkeeper Charles Eversfield, who took numerous documents from the firm's files before he left in March, 1955.

Eversfield's credibility was one of the key issues, the lawyer said, and in the eyes of the defence he was nothing less than "a schemer, a blackmailer and a liar."

He had taken the documents to use as ammunition in an attempt to blackmail Gray and his firm for $10,000 or a life partnership, Gray should be commended that he had resisted this attempt. The lawyer said Eversfield had done well financially out of the case. He had received $1,700 from Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy and as a Crown witness had been paid $60 a day for months. He was now a free man in Los Angeles with this money in his pocket.

Mr. Nicholson also criticized the Crown for "the long delay" in laying of the charges and said it had resulted in prejudice to the defence.

Thursday, the lawyer said that Gray may have acted "imprudently and unwisely" but was not a criminal nor guilty of criminal acts.

Mr. Nicholson said the Crown mainly rested its case on the evidence of Eversfield, the former Pacific Coast Services Ltd. bookkeeper who took numerous documents from the company files before he left his job in 1955.

Mr. Nicholson said the jury

SUICIDE BORED
7 IN CHEST

STOCKPORT, England (UPI)—Thomas Weston committed suicide by boring holes in his head and body with an electric drill, an inquest decided today.

Weston, a 55-year-old retired butcher, was found dead in his garage with one drill hole in his head and seven in his chest.

Mrs. Hannah Weston said her husband had been receiving treatment for depression.

FRIEND TO ALL

High Tribute To Retiring
SA Brigadier

Brigadier Harold Martin, a friend to hundreds of Victoria's down-and-outs, retired from the Salvation Army Wednesday night after 35 years' service.

At a farewell ceremony in the Army's Pandora Street headquarters, Magistrate Henry Hall paid tribute to his work as men's social service officer in the city. "I appreciate his good sense and unselfish service over the years," Mr. Hall said. "And I shall always remember his devotion to duty while attending as an officer in police court."

Mr. Hall said Brigadier Martin was equally respected by Victoria police officers, who valued his judgment and fairness.

Born in Scotland, Brigadier Martin came to Canada after the First World War and entered the Salvation Army College in 1923.

He served a number of years as corps officer in Vernon and Vancouver and was later appointed superintendent of the Winnipeg Delinquent Girls' Home.

Welsh comedian Wyn Calvin, who has been billing himself as "the Clown Prince of Wales" for the last five years, renounced the title at his 32nd birthday party because of a tactful letter from a royal secretary at Balmoral Castle where the real Prince of Wales, the nine-year-old son of the Queen is staying.

LONDON — Scotland Yard today dropped the case of Diana Dors's missing bundle of cash.

Detectives announced no charges would be filed after a midnight conference with Diana and her muscle-man manager and former boy friend, 28-year-old Tommy Yeardie.

Diana said Tuesday $11,000 had disappeared from a safe-deposit box she kept stuffed at a London department store for emergencies. Yeardie also had disappeared.

Tommy turned up Thursday and announced the money wasn't missing, he'd just "transferred it on Diana's behalf to safeguard her." He said he had flown to France to look over some horses for the stud farm the 26-year-old actress owns.

CAP D'AUL, France—Police today retained a young German and warned him to keep away from the Villa Caponcina, where Sir Winston and Lady Churchill are spending a Riviera holiday. They said they found the German craning with his camera over a wall overlooking the grounds of the villa. He said he had no money and hoped to take photographs of Churchill to sell to newspapers.

SAYS ARCHITECT

OTTAWA (CP)—Ernest Cormier, the Montreal architect who designed the $16,000,000 government printing bureau, complained today that he has not been consulted on a proposed $700,000 expenditure for improving the air conditioning system.

"That's the big trouble," he said before the Commons public accounts committee investigating construction of the building.

He said that when the building was going up he wanted to install a standby air conditioning machine at a cost of $178,000 but was turned down by the works department under the Liberal administration. "Now they want to spend $700,000," the 72-year-old architect said with a shrug.

Supreme Court
Waits 2 Weeks
On Little Rock

WASHINGTON (AP)—The highly-charged Little Rock integration issue hung suspended today after a Supreme Court decision to delay a showdown for at least two weeks on the question of mixing Negroes and whites in the Arkansas city's schools.

After hearing more than three hours of arguments in a special session Thursday, the nine justices went behind closed doors and decided to hold another hearing Sept. 11.

At that time, the court will consider the basic question of whether there should be a 24-year delay in resuming racial mixing of pupils at Little Rock Central High School.

There was some question as to whether Central High will reopen before the new arguments are heard and the court acts.

Ranged on one side of the dispute were Thurgood Marshall, Negro counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and J. Lee Rankin, solicitor-general of the United States.

On the other side was Richard C. Butler, lawyer for the Little Rock school board.

Marshall, opposing any delay in readmitting seven Negro pupils to the school, said the courts must not give ground before that kind of violence.

"You don't close the banks," he told the justices. "You put the robbers in jail."

But Butler said "there would be troops back in Little Rock to maintain law and order unless public school desegregation is delayed."

However, Rankin fought the idea of delay, saying the Little Rock school board had not sought either court action or the help of local law enforcement agencies to thwart troublemakers at Central High.

After Butler appealed for "patience and forbearance," Chief Justice Earl Warren said he believes every member of the high court recognizes "the very great problem your school board has."

But, Warren asked, "can we

U.K. Trawler
Arrested
By Iceland

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters)—An Icelandic gunboat today arrested the British trawler Lord Plender in Beida Bay, north of here.

An Icelandic coast guard spokesman said the British vessel was well within the four-mile limit.

As of Monday, Iceland will extend her fishing limits to 12 miles from four from her coasts. British trawlers, under the protection of a Royal Navy escort, plan to challenge the new limit which Britain refuses to recognize.

Iceland earlier today published orders forbidding even her own trawlers from fishing on main breeding grounds within the new 12-mile limit.

In Paris it was announced that NATO efforts to solve its Iceland dispute had broken down.

City-Run Bus
System Killed
By Council Vote

City council Thursday virtually killed chances of a study of practicability of publicly-owned transit in Greater Victoria.

A recorded vote defeated the measure five to two.

The action eliminates an intermunicipal committee proposal that the Sept. 8 Public Utilities Commission hearing on bus fare increases be delayed two months.

Sanich council voted for the study earlier this week, but Oak Bay and Esquimalt representatives indicated their councils would drop the idea as a result of city council's rejection.

TWO DISAPPOINTED

Sanich Coun. Charles Nelles and Esquimalt Coun. G. K. Sammon, who convinced intermunicipal committee that the study should be made, both said they were "disappointed" with Victoria's decision.

The sudden reversal of events will shove intermunicipal committee into the forefront again.

It is expected to act for the Greater Victoria area in a "dress rehearsal" of B.C. Electric's application for a bus fare increase.

Sanich and Esquimalt already have authorized intermunicipal committee to represent them at the meeting. Mayor Percy Scurrell said Thursday he had verbal authorization from each of the individual aldermen to add Victoria to the list. Oak Bay is expected to give authorization too.

ENTHUSIASM DIM

The study proposal was voted down after a dragging debate in council which saw little enthusiasm shown for the investigation even by those in favor.

A show-of-hands vote resulted in a tie, leaving the deciding vote in Mayor Scurrell's hands. "I'd like to co-operate with the other municipalities but to tell the truth I think it's a waste of money," he said before casting a vote. "I don't think it's going to affect the decision of the PUC and I don't know whether the study will be of any value."

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson broke in to say she had misunderstood the motion when she voted in favor of the study.

A recorded vote followed in which she switched her vote and the mayor added his "nay" to make it five to two against the study.

Later, council approved rejection.

must have read recent cases of men in high positions who had been guilty of indiscretions. One was Sherman Adams, special assistant to President Eisenhower, who had admitted accepting gifts. But this did not make him a criminal, and he still held his office and the apparent confidence of the president.

Mr. Nicholson said there had been loans to Sommers from Gray to the extent of some $7,000 out of Social Credit campaign funds which Gray had been collecting. But this did not make Gray guilty of a criminal act, he said. The Crown must prove, he said, that Gray and Schultz unlawfully conspired to bribe a minister of the Crown to betray the confidence vested in him. If doubt remained then the jury must acquit the accused.

New Estates Tax Act Sent Back by Senate (From Times News Services)

OTTAWA—The government's proposed new Estates Tax Act has been shunted back to the Commons, where it may lie dormant until next session.

Thursday for the first time this session the predominantly Liberal Senate so amended a major piece of government legislation that the Progressive Conservative administration could not accept the changes.

The Senate made eight changes to the estates tax bill previously passed by the Commons. Seven amendments have been accepted by the government.

But the eighth, which would exclude certain types of annuities from the estates tax, was rejected by Finance Minister Fleming when it was discussed.

Indian Affairs Get 'Good Airing'

Indian affairs received a thorough airing during study of the Citizenship Minister Fairclough's departmental estimates, including a plea by the CCE for higher rations or cash equivalent for indigent Indians.

Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena), who lives near Indian reservations in northern British Columbia, described as "niggardly" food rations amounting to about $10.35 a month, at reservation prices, for each adult.

He said they should be tripled or quadrupled, adding that a gradual replacement of food rations by $18 monthly cash sums is not enough.

Mrs. Fairclough said she is just as "gravely concerned" as Mr. Howard, but added the $18 allowance was for food only. Most Indians could supplement the sum by fishing and hunting for food.

Mr. Howard recommended the establishment of a royal commission on Indian affairs to conduct a complete study of Indian problems across Canada and have a close look at the administration and policies of the Indian affairs branch.

Mrs. Fairclough also outlined a $1,000,000 housing program for Indians on reservations. The program involves 538 homes on reservations, including 126 for British Columbia and the Yukon.

Some members urged greater steps to ensure Indians have educational facilities similar to those of white children. Mrs. Fairclough replied that more and more Indian children are advancing to higher grades.

At one point, the minister said it is anticipated 8,500 Indian children will attend non-Indian schools like other Canadian children in the coming

Social Security Boosted by Ike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower signed into law today a bill boosting social security benefits 7 per cent and increasing taxes on workers and employers by more than one billion dollars a year.

The new law directly affects the pocketbooks of nearly 90 million persons.

Social security checks will be larger, starting in February, for the 12 million persons on the benefit rolls. For most of them the increases will run about 7 per cent, averaging $4.75 a month for retired workers.

Starting Jan. 1, social security taxes will be increased an average of about $25 a year for 75 million full and part-time employees and self-employed persons covered by the program.

The new law also boosts payroll taxes from employers. They must match the amount contributed by their employees into the social security fund.

Eisenhower also signed a bill giving him $3,298,092.50 in new military and economic assistance money to bolster the economies and defenses of friendly nations.

The bill carries $1,515,000,000 in military aid for planes, tanks, weapons and other military hardware and $750,000,000 in economic defence supports to help allies such as Formosa and Korea maintain forces greater than their own economies will allow.

Reduction of some farm price supports was made as Eisenhower also signed a bill taking the administration road toward lower supports and more flexible management of the farm program. It is aimed at forestalling scheduled acreage cutbacks for cotton and rice next year.

A fourth bill signed by Eisenhower provides help to West Europe in building 1,000,000 kilowatts of atomic power capacity. It makes available $328,000,000 in assistance to a power pool established by the European atomic community.

HOUSE MODELS TOO

MP Picks Gargoyles From Press

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Herdige (CCF-Kootenay West) Thursday night placed the men in the parliamentary press gallery in the category of gargoyles as far as appearance is concerned.

Mr. Herdige, discussing construction of the new National gallery in Ottawa, said Thursday in the Commons the government might consider forming the building's facade with gargoyles.

For models he suggested members of the press gallery.

The Oxford English Dictionary defines a gargoyle as a "grotesque spout, usually with human or animal mouth, head or body, projecting from gutter of building."

Referring to the correspondents in the press gallery, Mr. Herdige said some are bearded, me bald. "We have all types," Mrs. Fairclough, looking dully at Mr. Herdige, a lean, white-haired man of 53, commented:

"I feel sure we could get some models from the floor of the house."

The Hard Core

THE LATEST OFFICIAL figures from Ottawa show a sharp drop in unemployment. For the first time in more than a year that problem is shrinking. But evidently it will still be a problem for some time yet. And unemployment is much worse this summer than it was a year ago.

In July, 1957, 163,000 Canadians were out of work as against 286,000 in July, 1958. Moreover, the total this year is almost three times as large as it was in July, 1956.

A year earlier than that, in mid-summer, 1955, Canada was emerging from another recession. The Government of the day believed that recovery would be rapid, as it was, but the Conservative Opposition was appalled to see 150,000 Canadians jobless—not much more than half the figures for last month.

The Opposition's alarm at that time was unfounded. The practical question today is whether the Government's optimism today is well founded. To that question the answer will appear when the active summer and autumn season ends and the slack winter season begins.

It is clear from the latest figures that no fundamental economic improvement began until about the first of July. Up to then a fall in unemployment was due entirely to seasonal factors. The June total of 320,000 unemployed showed that recovery had not eaten into the hard core of the recession.

More than seasonal factors, however, appeared, in July when a further sharp drop in the over-all unemployment figure represented a definite improvement in business.

Thus the Government's statement, last spring, that recovery was under way now finds some justification, though the earlier announcements were premature.

Nevertheless, the fact remains that only one in ten of the persons unemployed in June had found work by the end of July.

The hard core of the problem, and a pretty large one, remains. Almost certainly it will remain throughout the winter when, of course, the list of the unemployed will be swelled by the inevitable slackness of some industries in a cold climate.

In honest politics and sound economics two other facts should not be forgotten.

The first is that the present Government did not cause the unemployment problem, nor did its predecessor, which was unfairly attacked by the Conservative Party on that score. Unemployment was caused mainly by continental and world conditions beyond the control of any Canadian Government.

The second fact is that while unemployment has hit far too many Canadians they are still a small minority of the total population. The great majority are employed and the nation, by any former standard, is highly prosperous.

Britain Needs Oil

FOR ITS LOGIC AND ITS CAN- dor a recent statement in the British Parliament by Mr. Lloyd, the foreign secretary, is worth reading.

Apart from peace, said Mr. Lloyd, Britain had a vital second interest in the Middle East. That interest was oil "and it is better to face frankly that this is so. I do not know," he added, "whether the people of our own country yet understand our full dependence on this area from which between 70 and 80 per cent of our oil supplies still come. However much coal or atom power we are able to harness in the future, we shall still need all the fuel for our industrial expansion here and in Western Europe that we can lay hands on."

"Nor can we afford to pay dollars for oil; nor indeed could we afford to forfeit the sterling which we get from the sales of our oil. So let everybody in this country understand the effect which the loss of this oil in the Middle East area would have upon the economy of the United Kingdom and the lives of everybody in it, and not only that, but on Western Europe, too."

It was true, said Mr. Lloyd, that the Middle East was not Britain's exclusive concern but it was equally true that Britain's stake in the oil there was high—"a proper commercial interest legitimately based on a respectable commercial enterprise."

There should be, he urged, no conflict between Britain and Arab interests but "quite the contrary because Arab oil and the good currency of the West should be able to join together in harmonious and mutually beneficial arrangements." There should be no legitimate conflict either between the great powers in the Middle East since Russia had no commercial interests there, only a political interest.

That conflict, however, has developed, mainly through Russia's political interest. Facing its possibilities squarely, Mr. Lloyd laid down the final word of the British Government: "Should a third party, whether it is Russia or Nasser, seek by calculated, deliberate policy to deprive us of our oil supplies and to deprive Western Europe of its oil supplies, and thereby to put a veto on the industrial expansion in the western world, then it is well to make it plain and unmistakable that that situation could not be tolerated by the United Kingdom."

In the muted language of diplomacy those are strong words, and honest.

Britain needs Middle East oil, it has developed the oil fields with its own money, it has paid the Arabs for the use of their resources and in this process benefited them and all of Western Europe.

To be sure, many mistakes have been made in the Middle East by Britain and other Western powers and a new policy toward the Arab revolution is required. But the fact remains, as Mr. Lloyd says, that Britain needs Middle East oil and the arrangements for securing it, though always open to re-negotiation in detail, are perfectly proper and respectable. Britain rejects the hypocrisy of denying its interests.

A Place of Hope

ALL VICTORIA REJOICES with Queen Alexandra Solarium officials and patients as the organization settles into its new home at Gordon Head. This week's move from the historic establishment at Mill Bay is the culmination of six years of planning and effort by devoted supporters of the institution and by generous contributions from many private citizens.

Housed in its fine modern building, the Solarium today is a monument to faith and endeavor, an abiding tribute to the humanitarian ideals of many persons and groups. But it is above all a rehabilitation centre for young lives—lives that have been prevented from finding their full use and enjoyment because of crippling physical affliction.

Here the twisted limbs are straightened, the weakened bones supported, the knotted muscles eased and strengthened. It is a place of hope, and hope fulfilled, from which the visitor will return with a new appreciation of mankind, a new pride—and a new humility.

Old-Fashioned Sputniks

THIS MONTH THE WANDERING, man-made sputniks faced some ancient competitors in the sky. It is the season of the shooting stars, as we usually call them, a lively sight on an autumn evening. But the scientists call these brief specks of matter by the name of Perseids because they come from the direction of the remote constellation of Perseus—lost travelers in the trackless cosmos.

They are always on the move through space but only a few of them are visible to earth dwellers when they encounter, by unlikely chance, the atmosphere of our planet. Then friction quickly sets them on fire and they burn briefly, most of them completely extinguished in flight but a few falling on the earth as meteorites.

Everyone sees a shooting star now and then in the month of the Perseids but the human imagination is not built large enough to grasp the distance of their journey, to understand the mystery of a universe in which man's habitation is not a fraction of a pin-point.

He launches a few rockets into space, they move for a little while in their small orbits and soon disintegrate. The shower of the Perseids goes on forever. If he does not destroy his world in the meantime, man will still be watching the August skies with wonder as hence when all our present troubles and triumphs are forgotten.

They Really Like It

THE sands of time are trickling a little thinly for those of our citizens who have been enjoying summer holidays for the past two months or more. The rising generation, which will have to rise a little earlier starting next Tuesday, is facing the moment of truth. It is traditional at such a time to paint school children as being reluctant to return to their classrooms. Shakespeare seems to have set the fashion with his "whining schoolboy...creeping like snail unwillingly to school." It has become unbreakable custom to follow this pattern. Many a youngster, bursting with eagerness to see his schoolmates again and explore his new curriculum, has had to pretend that he hated the very thought of returning. If he didn't put up this false facade he might be considered odd by his adults.

His contemporaries would know better, of course. They, almost to a child, would share his enthusiasm. But custom cannot be flouted, and after all, one's parents so obviously expect conformity.

So the preparations for school are carried out in an atmosphere of phony reluctance, and the snail's pace is maintained on opening morning at least until the boy is out of sight of the house. Actually, even in a slightly earlier day, there were few whining schoolboys. The fall seemed a logical time to go indoors anyway.

The evenings were getting shorter. The swimming was just about over. There were more rainy days. You'd had a long vacation and there wasn't much new to do by this time. And, most important of all, all your friends were going back to school too.

What on earth would you do if you did play hooky? Hang around near the school until your pals came out?

Real opposition to schoolroom enclosure wasn't felt until much later. Along in the spring when the first warm days appeared, the first good lounging-in-the-sun conditions arrived and the first flowers and leaves began to show around the neighborhood—that was the time when a boy—if he had any snail in him, began to reveal it.

Coupled with the added attractions outdoors was the added threat indoors—the final examinations were looming nearer and they were enough to inspire vague, unformed thoughts of escape.

The very first day of the very first term of school held a touch of terror, of course. The six-year-olds appeared in the schoolyard usually clutching their mother's hand. Each was dragged up the unfamiliar steps and into unfamiliar, and hence frightening, hallways and rooms.

The evenings were getting shorter. The swimming was just about over. There were more rainy days. You'd had a long vacation and there wasn't much new to do by this time. And, most important of all, all your friends were going back to school too.

There followed a quick visit to the school principal, a few remarks between parent and teacher which were completely unintelligible to the child but apparently satisfactory to the adults, a word or two of reassurance from the parent with solemn promises to meet the youngster after school, and then the final abandonment.

At this point the six-year-old was on his own, perhaps for the first time in his life. He had to meet his equals and prove he was an equal too.

Fortunate he felt if he recognized a few of the other first-timers. Even casual and not-much-liked acquaintances were greeted as lifelong friends. It was any port in a storm, in this strange educational sea.

Each newcomer felt that all the rest were much more at home than he was. Everyone else—except a handful of obvious failures—seemed to know what it was all about. But as the days went by the various levels were soon found.

The least observant youngster in the class soon knew who was the bravest, who the fraidy-cat, who the bully, who the good guys and the bad guys, and which ones in the majority pool of average citizens were going to be his particular chums for the rest of the term—and perhaps for life.

Little kindnesses—perhaps entirely unmeant as such—were received with unusual pleasure and long remembered. As though it were yesterday instead of more than 40 years ago, I can remember the red-faced little fellow who paused beside me as I watched the tag game he was engaged in and said, "Wanta play?" It was the first recess of my first day, and he had opened the gate.

Everyone has random memories of schooldays which cling to the mind for years for no apparent reason. They seem to have no importance but they are as firmly embedded as though life depended on them.

I can remember the way a boy's brown jersey used to wrinkle as he marched up the steps ahead of me day after day. I can remember the exact tone of a boy's "Oh!" when another boy kicked him in the stomach during a schoolyard fight. I can remember my worry on encountering my teacher twice one morning on the way to school and wondering whether I should tip my hat a second time.

And above all I can remember the smell of the new schoolbooks, a delicious mingling of paper, ink and glue—a perfume which even today, on opening a book fresh from the printers, sends me right back to the third seat in the second row of the second-floor rear room at Beacon Hill School.

I wonder if any youngster in that seat will commence a life-long olfactory pleasure next Tuesday morning?

The evenings were getting shorter. The swimming was just about over. There were more rainy days. You'd had a long vacation and there wasn't much new to do by this time. And, most important of all, all your friends were going back to school too.

What on earth would you do if you did play hooky? Hang around near the school until your pals came out?

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Law Without Policy

WITH the schools about to open, the United States finds itself committed to the principle of integration. Yet there is no policy for carrying out integration. There is no policy, there is no program, there is no guidance, there are no rules on how to proceed. For the federal government, which has the duty of realizing the principle, has abstained from the effort of working out ways and means for realizing it. Thus, Congress has, as we know, avoided any responsibility to do anything about the problem of reconciling the principle of integration with the resistance of the people and the state governments in the Deep South. The courts are not really equipped to deal with the practical problems of integration, as they were exemplified during the past year in the Little Rock school.

In reversing Judge Lemley's order to suspend integration for a while, the Circuit Court of Appeals took the view that "it is not the province of this court in this proceeding to advise the (school) board as to the means of implementing integration in the Little Rock school. We are directly concerned only with the legality of the order under review."

This avoidance of the problem of implementing the principle was followed by the President's press conference last week in which he disavowed any responsibility for dealing with the substance of the problem. He professed to believe that his whole duty is to "execute" the law, leaving it to the court to determine what the law is.

This poses problems which go far beyond, and are quite different from, the problems of dealing with lawless mobs. They are problems which are insoluble by exhortation, or by federal injunction and law suits in the federal courts. For the essential issue is the refusal of lawful state governments to accept the validity of a federal law.

Conflicts of this kind can be resolved in one of two ways. There can be a resort to overwhelming force to crush the resistance, which, of course, is ruled out.

And there can be what is in fact internal diplomacy—negotiation between the federal authorities and the resisting state authorities aimed at some kind of compact about when, where, how much, how fast, by what means, the principles of integration is to be applied in the Deep South.

If such a negotiation is to take place, it will have to be initiated by the President, and the leading members of Congress will have to participate in it.

(C) 1958 New York Herald Tribune Inc.

On the other level a letter from Uncle Paul re the new bond issue, introduced a contrast in our federal financial picture, and I fully agree with Uncle Paul.

Here in Canada with a huge territory and only 17,000,000 people possibly 15 per cent or approximately 2,500,000 of them in the really earning category, underdeveloped resources on every hand, with service requirements of education, hospitalization, transportation, bridges, highways, etc., etc., the very essential requirement to accomplish all this is cheap money.

Being an old retired farmer my thoughts often ponder over the past and in the old Victorian days one of the most stable features of finance was the British Consols which, though they only carried an interest rate of between 1½ to 2 per cent, still guaranteed to purchasers fair value whenever negotiation took place.

For a sure investment one was safe, but Canadian bonds without this guarantee are more of a speculation, the benefits in that respect chiefly accruing to banks and other financial interests.

When one observes the appreciation in value of chartered bank stock I think our federal government should have kept interest rates low and guaranteed par value and if the issue of the recent loan had not met popularity for the actual welfare of the country, conscripted support from the banks and life insurance companies.

Then if these bonds later receded in value I would, like many other individuals, have been glad to have taken some off their hands.

When one realizes that, for instance, Royal Bank stock at Sept. 1, 1944, was reduced from 150½ to 14½ and is now worth again 68½, it shows plainly that these money barons with cartelized control over currency need no further stimulus.

Who Won?

NEW YORK—The emergency session of the General Assembly is over but the debate continues at the United Nations.

Essentially they're all discussing one thing—who won? Who won and who lost in the strange, exciting and, in every sense of the word, intriguing Middle East session? How was it possible to have the nations bitterly divided, fearful of war, and then a few hours later vote together 80-0 amid floods of brotherly oratory?

The full story won't be known for a long time but many delegates believe they can see the outlines and they think that, as in most good bargains, most of the bargainers gained something, most had to give something away.

Even President Nasser, one of the big winners, has his difficulties. This may, of course, just be one phase in Nasser's march to absolute power in the Middle East but some experts doubt it. It's noted, for example, that the new burst of pan-Arab enthusiasm may weaken Nasser's ties with his satellite state of Syria.

Syria is part of the "fertile crescent" which extends up the Valley of the Euphrates across into Syria and in early times it provided the economic basis for the earliest civilizations. Later, as successors to Babylon and the other ancient wonder cities, came Damascus and Baghdad as the centres of the great Arab Empire. Today, as always, trade routes lie between Syria and Iraq rather than with Egypt. Furthermore, it's noted that the Egyptians are not regarded as true Arabs by their brothers east of Suez.

Another complication for Mr. Nasser is the fact that the oil-producing states of the Persian Gulf may express their pan-Arab patriotism more in flows of words than of oil. Their standards of living are still low and Middle East authorities say that there is strong sentiment in the oil-producing countries to look after their own people first.

Burke

Another possible embarrassment for Colonel Nasser is the fact that the Arabs have noted in their resolution in the General Assembly their obligation to respect the independence of other territories. This would seem to be indirect recognition of Mr. Nasser's indirect aggression.

Finally, now that greater harmony has been introduced, now that Western influence has been broken, there may be felt to be less need of Mr. Nasser's type of revolutionary leadership. The result may be a sort of Middle Eastern commonwealth, as suggested by Canada's External Affairs Minister Sydney Smith, rather than a single state ruled by Nasser.

In the same way, the experts calculate both gains and losses for all the main participants in the struggle.

Jordan's King Hussein, for example, loses much of his power but, if things had continued as they were, he might have lost his life. It's understood that Britain told the king that the West could not support him against the will of 85 per cent of his people and all his neighbors.

The United States, Britain and Russia all suffered losses when the Arabs declined their offers to be saviors of the Middle East. By reaching agreement, the Arabs made it quite clear to the world that theirs was essentially a domestic quarrel and that "indirect aggression" was not as frightening to them as it seemed to be to Western speakers. On the other hand, the Arabs made it clear that "imperialist aggression" was not as frightful to them as to the Russians.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

What, No Bad Drivers?

LONDON—A correspondent here has come up with a revealing observation. Why is it, he asks, that people will admit that they are no good at certain things but nobody will admit that he is a bad driver?

How true this is, when you think about it. Without hesitation a person will say "I'm no good at swimming" or "I'm a bad dancer." But have you ever heard anyone say "I'm a bad driver?"

I wonder why it's so. It can't be just a matter of pride because if it were nobody would admit to being a duffer at swimming or dancing or any other pursuit.

Perhaps it stems from the fact that if you are a bad driver you're a menace on the roads whereas if you're hopeless at golf, say, or skating it doesn't really matter.

Let's be frank with ourselves and acknowledge that even when the facts of our bad driving are pointed out to us we'll staunchly deny that they're true.

Wives are among the main people to make such accusations, chiefly because they have more opportunity to observe you in action at the wheel. My wife, for instance, is firmly convinced I'm a bad driver. This is very unfair, because it all harks back to the first time I ever drove her.

It was during the war and the drive was over the 300 miles to London from Cornwall, where I had bought a second-hand car from an RAF type who had run short of money on leave.

My wife says that whereas other people drive a car sitting back relaxed, I'm hunched over the wheel, gripping it with all my might, eyes glued to the road.

It was understandable on that trip because, having bought the car virtually sight unseen, I hadn't driven more than a block in it than I found it had no brakes. Well, no brakes to speak of. If you did put the brakes on they would grip on one wheel and slew the car around back to front before you knew where you were. So it was better to keep the car under control with the gears.

I thought I drove admirably on that 300 miles across the English countryside. All we hit was a cow. But perhaps it would have been better if we'd bumped into the back of a truck or something. I've never heard the last of not being able to avoid hitting anything as slow moving as a cow.

Since then, perhaps subconsciously admitting that my wife is right, I haven't done much driving. This has put me at the mercy of other people at the wheel and made me realize that the one thing worse than a bad driver is a good driver who thinks he's really hot stuff—the smart boys, so intent on showing how good they are that they become bad drivers.

Such a one was a neighbor we had when we lived in Port Credit. He was a whizz-bang at the wheel, passing everything in sight and judging gaps to within an eighth of an inch—but never making allowances for the dear old lady driving out of a side street, seeing him advancing on her, screaming "Oh, horrors!" and stalling across the middle of the road.

If I saw him coming as I was waiting for my Gray Coach Lines bus into town I used to hide behind a tree to avoid him giving me a lift.

Pampas Grass Feature for Fall

The garden takes on a new beauty as summer slips quietly to fall.

It is as though the garden is enjoying the predominantly muted colorings of the season after the flash of summer.

An outstanding plant for fall gardens is the pampas grass, Cortaderia argentea, which just now as its silvery plumes emerging from the long arrow leaves.

Not a highly-colored plant, but pampas is a noble addition to a middle-size or large garden, since the longest leaves are six feet long and the plume stems reach 10 or 12 feet.

Pampas plumes are most effective blown out like silver pennants against dark evergreens, or against a blue harvest sky.

When fully opened, some of the plumes may be cut and used dry indoors with other dried ornamental grasses as a decorative arrangement.

Although most of the gardening books specify a light, open soil for the pampas, we have

The Day YOU Were Born

Diane Miles, 3845 Merriman Drive, is a very modern young lady. Not only can she type a crisp business letter, but she knows about the innards of automobiles—takes them apart and puts them together for fun. She collects steering wheels from different makes of cars, paints and decorates them and puts them proudly on display. Any old steering wheels anybody?

On the day she was born, also a Friday:

The Dnieperpetrovsk dam, pride of the Russian Ukraine, was blown up by retreating Russian force. This action was believed to have saved most of Marshal Budyenny's southern army.

Australia got a new Prime Minister. Arthur William Fadden was sworn in as the country's 13th P.M. Mr. Menzies' resignation over a cabinet crisis left the post vacant.

Canada agreed to deliver 600,000 pounds of bacon to Great Britain during the next year.

The Marx Brothers' latest film, "The Big Store," was showing at the Dominion.

Lord Louis Mountbatten took command of HMS Illustrious.

LONDON (AP)—A Conservative member of Parliament, roused by the recent racial outbursts in Britain, said Thursday he had the support of more than 30 members of Parliament in a move to restrict colored immigration into Britain from the Commonwealth and colonies.

Norman Pannell said the object of the proposed measure was "to get some control, not to bar all colonial and Commonwealth immigration."

MONTREAL (CP)—Recent British racial riots are of an entirely different kind and scope than extended and long-standing historical differences such as occur in America and South Africa, a prominent British peer said here.

"The trouble in England is concentrated in two or three industrial areas and appears to revolve around housing and unemployment," Viscount Hallam, chairman of Britain's Conservative party, said.

CONTROL of New York Herald Tribune has been bought by U.S. ambassador to Britain John Hay Whitney. President and editor Ogden Reid, said his family still will hold an interest in the paper and he will remain editor until Whitney decides his plans.

Negro Youth Shot In Police Scuffle

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Police who sought to arrest a teen-aged Negro on a complaint he was trying to date a white woman, shot and killed the youth Thursday as he scuffled with them.

Detectives J. C. McKenzie and L. A. Reynolds were sent to a restaurant after police received a complaint that 17-year-old Gus Foster had telephoned a white woman, using obscene language and asked for a date.

Police said Foster could be heard talking on the telephone inside a restaurant when detectives arrived to arrest him on a disorderly charge.

The policemen shouted to him that he was under arrest, and the youth came out of the building swinging a heavy iron weight, Reynolds related.

Council Offers 'Union Shop' But No Strikes

City council Thursday approved an agreement giving its inside staff a "union shop" in return for voluntary surrender of the right to strike.

Approval was fought by Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow and Arthur Dowell.

Ald. M. H. Mooney opposed the agreement at first but switched his stand after a see-saw battle which saw:

1. City Manager C. C. Wyatt arguing strongly in favor of the agreement because it would "give substantial advantages" to both sides.

2. Most aldermen expressing dislike for the union shop clause but agreeing it was worth the guarantee of no strike action.

Under the five-year agreement, all disputes between the City Hall Employees' Association and council automatically would go before a county court judge for binding arbitration.

All "inside staff" employees would be required to join the association after a three-month probationary period. The association said this was not a closed shop because employees did not have to belong to the union before they were hired.

Police, fire and "outside staff" employees have had similar agreements for several years.

Ald. Dowell said he had sincere respect for the City Hall employees but he could not agree with their proposal.

"As far as I'm concerned it's a matter of principle. I'm against closed shops and I always will be," he said.

Public Relations at All-Time Low

Ald. Edgelow said "union public relations are at an all-time low because of the series of strikes in the province." He said it was "unfortunate that the inside staff is bringing up anything that would make things more hidebound" with a union shop.

Mr. Wyatt said he and two other top city officials had given the proposed agreement "the most thorough study for six months" and were unanimously recommending it as a benefit to the city.

He said besides eliminating strikes, the agreement would also eliminate a "tricky" situation in which splinter groups occur in the staff because some members could elect to join a variety of different unions.

The agreement would bind the inside staff into a single unit for bargaining purposes which would be a material advantage to the city, he said.

Council rejected a motion to lay the matter on the table and instructed the city solicitor to

TRANSFER OF PROPERTY TO WATERBOARD BACKED

Transfer of city-owned Beaver-Elk Lake property to the Greater Victoria Water Board was approved in principle Thursday by city council.

The proposal was sent to the board for consideration. Price for the deal, which would set up the recreational area as a Greater Victoria development, was left open.

City Shies at Elk Lake Land Deal

Brakes were applied by city council Thursday to proposed purchase of all available private property fronting on Elk Lake by Victoria and Saanich.

A Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee recommendation that the step be taken was referred to city solicitor for report.

Saanich already has agreed to split the cost of the purchases. The city owns most of the water frontage now.

Ald. Elmer McEwen argued the property should be purchased because "we're in the position now where we own the house and somebody else owns the front door."

He said the city could never control use of the lake until it owned all of the frontage. Speed boats could get on the lake over private property no matter how council felt about it, he said.

Assistant city solicitor Angus Smith pointed out that the city could purchase the property, in Saanich, only if it needed it to protect its water reservoir.

Saanich could not share in that.

Chest Campaign Falling Off Pace

By DAVID COWLISHAW

All is not well with the Community Chest. The $300,000 campaign train that was rattling along at a nifty pace only a week ago seems to be grinding to a halt in a tunnel of gloom.

Said campaign chairman Justin Harbord, Thursday, "The initial enthusiasm seems to have worn off. It looks as though we shall need some pep pills to keep up going for the next month."

He blamed the slow-down on a certain apathy among Chest workers, then noted that the average businessman was not "sold" on the Chest.

Suffering Ignored

"I'll bet $50 for the Chest," he told a campaign meeting at Spencerhouse, "that some of our own members can't name 12 of the 20 agencies. We shall have to push like blazes. Living in a lovely and wealthy city like Victoria and in our own beautiful surroundings and comfortable homes, we tend to forget there is a lot of real need and suffering around us."

Mr. Harbord said some people are mailing in money but he thought a few of them did so merely to avoid the canvasser.

"Maybe we should call on these people even though they have already donated," he added. "People just don't know enough about the Chest and it is up to the canvasser to make the effort to sell them on it."

Later an argument boiled up between Mr. Harbord and Don Smith, co-chairman of the industrial-commercial firms division.

Smith Defends Team

Mr. Harbord felt Mr. Smith should get his teams together frequently for pep talks, but Mr. Smith countered with, "These men are competent people. They are not school-boys who have to be lined up and told things. My men are all enthusiastic and ready to go."

Mr. Harbord: "We shall expect $75,000 from your division."

Mr. Smith: "Make it $50,000."

Other dismal notes were sounded by Hubert Wallace, Chest president and chairman of the payroll deduction division. "We're a little behind schedule," while speakers' committee chairman Hugh Stephen announced the Esquimalt Lions had rejected the Chest suggestion that they help with the canvassing.

Only optimistic report was that Mrs. Sheila Morgan, co-

BREAD PRICE BOOST PROTEST BY RATEPAYERS

The B.C. Federation of Ratepayers has protested to the federal government a two-cent increase in the price of bread in Vancouver and Victoria, starting next Tuesday.

George Bonner, Cobble Hill, federation president, said Thursday night he had wired the combines commissioner at Ottawa requesting an order to prevent bakeries from raising their bread prices.

"We feel there is a cartel both in flour mills and bakeries," he said, "and that it should be broken up."

The price increase was announced in Victoria, Thursday, by McGavin's Bakery, Ltd. Other city bakeries said they would follow suit.

Woman Kept Tied to Tree

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Police investigating the case of a 31-year-old woman found tied to a tree in the rear yard of a Kitchener home said today she had been tied there by members of her family.

They said the woman has been mentally incompetent since birth and the family had made a practice in recent years of tying her with a rope when she had to be left alone in the house. The length of rope allowed the woman considerable freedom of movement without enabling her to leave the property.

SIDELINE SLANTS

VANCOUVER—Unless these eyes were mistaken, there were a bunch of confused campaigners among golf's gold trail regulars by the time the first round of the B.C. Centennial Open ended in a steady rain yesterday afternoon.

The niblick experts from here and yon appear to have acquired a new respect for the trees and traps of this deceptive Point Grey Golf and Country Club course.

Before they started out in the chase for $42,800 prize money, most of the famed fairway floggers said it was a tricky layout and predicted nobody would murder par. But in several cases there was the feeling that the words were prompted by false modesty.

At first glance the course looks easy. It can be clobbered by long, straight hitting and there is little doubt that many believed they had the strokes to take the lengthy—6,480 yards—layout to pieces.

Although the talented tee troupers performed a neat operation on par—33 of the 116 starters trimmed one to four strokes from regulation digits—nobody quite got around to major surgery. Missing were the 65s and 66s.

The gold trail elite learned that while it is one thing to wreck Point Grey par once or twice, it is quite another to continue for several successive rounds.

Johnny Bulla, the 44-year-old California warhorse, who had a 65 in Wednesday's pro-amateur, climbed to a 76 Thursday and madcap Moe Norman jumped from 67 to 74. Masters champion Arnold Palmer, who was eight under in Tuesday's practice round, had a first-round 72 and several others found Thursday's tour an equally tough one.

Put Kid Gloves on for This One

From this corner it appears that now the big beltlers are convinced that this course must be handled with care. They'll be knocking off an occasional 66 or 65 the rest of the way.

And it is the thought here that only Fred Hawkins among the four sharing the first-round lead with 68s is a good bet to stay on top over the 72-hole route.

Koichi Ono, the pint-sized Japanese pro, doesn't have the power to consistently master the long course, especially now that it is softened by rain. Al Balding, who plans to soon have a medical check-up, may not be well enough to keep up the pace, and Jerry Magee may falter under the pressure of more-seasoned campaigners snapping at his heels.

There are a score of big-name pros who could put together a couple of hot rounds and take command before this centennial clambake is over, but on Thursday's play eight could be selected along with Hawkins as most likely to battle it out in Monday's final round.

You can't pass up Gene Littler, 69, and Ken Venturi, 70, as sweet a pair of swingers as you'd ever care to see; burly Mike Souchak, Frank Stranahan, Mike Fetick or Art Wall Jr., all with 69s, Stan Leonard, 70, or likeable Jay Hebert, three strokes back at 71.

An all-night rain makes Leonard look like one of the best bets. If such a thing can be said about a guy that was two under par, Stan played poorly Thursday, probably suffering from home-town jitters because he wants to win this one so badly, he was pushing his tee shots and in constant trouble.

Missed Three-Footer May Hurt Him

But, true to his reputation as a peerless scrambler, Stan fired some of the day's greatest shots from behind, under and between trees. And except for a missed three-foot putt for a par on the 17th, would have been only one blow behind the leading quartet.

Leonard was smiling when he headed for a shower. "I always seem to play my worst golf in Vancouver," he said. "I'm lucky that I'm not about six behind and with that one out of my system, maybe I'll get my drives back in the groove."

Leonard may have played some of his worst golf in his home town, but he's also played some of his best.

Turn back the pages to the 1947 B.C. Open, played in late October in miserable, wet weather which made this same Point Grey course its longest and toughest.

Stan won that one with a 265, 19 strokes under par. Next in line, 19 blows back and even with par, was a pretty fair clouter, Ed "Porky" Oliver, who started out Thursday with three straight birdies and finished up with a 69.

It was raining then and it's wet and miserable this morning. So don't bet against Stan Leonard yet.

5.30—M. Maymuth and R. Peckitt vs. V. Wilkinson and J. Bayliss. D. Heale vs. J. Cowan vs. J. McCormick and J. Gray. D. Vik and T. Churchill vs. R. Lenehan and A. Pitkethly. R. Macdonald and P. Joellberg vs. J. Parby and K. Ross.

6.00—Aldridge vs. J. Coar.
6.00—R. Lenehan and J. Butler vs. D. Lawrence and B. Emery.

VETS, EAGLES RENEW BALL HOSTILITIES

Rain, which put a damper on all outdoor sports in the Victoria area Thursday, also forced cancellation of the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League's semifinal play-off game between Wakeman Trimble and Pearce Electric.

The Electricians lead the best-of-three series, 1-0.

In tonight's action, starting at 6.30 at Royal Athletic Park, Eagles tackle Naval Vets in the second game of their semifinal set. Eagles grabbed the first game, 6-3.

INTEREST INCREASES GREATLY

Officials Laud 'Best Ever' Tourney

By IAN SMITH
Lawn bowling officials today paid glowing tributes to the operations and successes of the 1958 Canadian championships, which ended Wednesday with the crowning of champions on the Beacon Hill greens.

But while the tournament was the "most successful ever," the same officials were quick to add that it's only a sample of what is in store for the game in future years.

Speaking as vice-president of the Canadian Lawn Bowling Council and also as a member of the board of governors for the sponsors, Hamilton's Bill Connor paid his tribute in plain and simple English:

"It's the most successful 'do we've ever had."

"We started these championships in Hamilton in 1955, and next year in Vancouver it was a lot bigger and better. Montreal put on an excellent show in 1957, the most successful up to that time.

"We weren't too particular

'Bellies One Up In Boxla Series

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Showing none of their expected lethargy after having to wait for Nanaimo Timbermen, New Westminster Salmonbellies Thursday night took a one-game lead in the Intercity Lacrosse League final.

Before 2,612 Queen's Park Arena fans, Salmonbellies scored a 17-15 opening game-win after Timbermen had swarmed back from a 12-6 third-quarter deficit to knot the count at 13-13 at five minutes and 30 seconds of the final frame.

The winning goal, scored by league-leading scorer Jack Bionda at 13:17 of the fourth period, was hotly disputed by the entire Nanaimo team, who claimed the ball had not crossed the goal line. Referee Earl MacDonald and Wally Henderson declared a goal, however, and Salmonbellies added a further marker 1½ minutes later to clinch the victory.

Earlier Nanaimo had led 3-2 after the first period of play but fell behind 9-4 by halftime as the Salmonbellies outscored them 7-1.

Cliff Sepka was the hero for the Salmonbellies with six goals. Bionda, used sparingly by New Westminster, scored three goals and Ken Oddy two. For Nanaimo, Joe White and Skip MacKay each scored three times.

Just What Are Herb's Capabilities?

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP)—How fast can Herb Elliott run? That was the question track experts asked today following a world-smashing 3.36 for 1,500 metres by the 20-year-old Australian Thursday.

Many even refused to venture a guess as he preceded his almost incredible 1,500 with a 3.54 mile at Dublin Aug. 6. The mile is 1,760 yards—1,500 metres is 1,640 yards, one foot, four inches.

Some believe Elliott will be the first to better 3.50 for the mile. He has been under four minutes on eight occasions since bursting into the limelight late last January with 3.59.4 mile at Melbourne.

"No man must set a limit on his capabilities," he said of himself. "Nobody must be limited by what's around him."

Dr. Roger Bannister, first man to break the four-minute barrier, and John Landy, who lowered the mile record to 3.58, called his 3.54.5 at Dublin "absolutely incredible." But his metric time Thursday was even better. It was equivalent to a mile between 3.53 and 3.54.

Balding, Magee Share Lead With Hawkins, Japanese Ace

By DOUG PEDEN, Times Sports Editor

POINT GREY GOLF CLUB—Traffic was cluttered up at this rain-sodden Point Grey course this morning as par-busting golfers started belting balls in the second round of the $42,800 B.C. Centennial Open.

With only four strokes separating the first 38 professionals in Canada's greatest-ever fairway frolic, it was still hard to tell the leaders from the also-rans as golf's gold trail tourists set out on their second trips around the tree-studded, par-72 layout.

Two Canadians, an American and a Japanese ace squeezed into a four-way tie for first place Thursday with four-under 68s. But they had 11 money-hungry pros crowding their heels only one stroke behind.

Another 10 were jammed into the 70 slot and 13 managed to scramble home with one-under 71s. Twelve in the starting field of 116 got down in regulation figures.

Out in front were a pair of Toronto swingers — ailing Al Balding and youthful Jerry Magee — Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and Koichi Ono from Japan.

Hawkins, who toured the opening nine with an even-par

Fancy Finish Might Be Al's Cure

Balding, troubled by nervousness and insomnia, also got hot on the back nine, finishing with an eagle 3 on the 18th for the 32 he added to his outgoing 36.

Ono, a 39-year-old 135-pounder, was a model of accuracy. Shorter off the tees than most of his rivals, he made up for it with pin-point shotmaking.

Displaying strokes as precise and neat as a miniature Japanese garden, he seldom was off line on his trips from tee to green. His putting had the touch of a master and he used only 29 putts on the 18 holes.

Jammed in the crowd at 69 were burly Mike Souchak; s m o o t h Gene Littler, who missed a three-foot birdie putt on the 18th; chubby Ed "Porky" Oliver, who four-putted the sloping tenth green; sparkplug heir Frank Stranahan; Art Wall, Jr.; Dow Finsterwald, who has finished in second place in 17 tournaments during the past 31 months; big Mike Fetick; 1956 Canadian Open champion, Doug Sanders; Jim Feree; Don Whitt, and Howie Johnson.

Grouped with Vancouver's Stan Leonard at 70 were such stars at Wes Ellis, the New Jersey pro who won last week's Canadian Open at Edmonton; the perfectionist, Ken Venturi; George Bayer, the huge Seattle slugger; Marty Furgol; Ralph Blomquist, and Billy Maxwell.

Bert Weaver, 26-year-old Beaumont, Tex., was disqualified from the tournament when his card showed a wrong score for the 18th hole—a birdie four instead of a par five. Spectacled Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., withdrew after scoring a 77 in the opening round, which he played with a throat infection and a temperature of more than 100.

Thursday's biggest collapse came when perfectionist Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., 1958 Masters champion, followed a one-over-par five on the 14th hole with a two-over-par six on the 16th and a one-over-par on the 17th. He had been three under par before he struck putting trouble.

"Three under going to the 14th, birdie the last hole and finish up with 72," Palmer said after his round. "Some idiot," Colwood professional Bill Court overcame a jittery start to tour the second nine with a fine one-under 34 to finish with 73, only five strokes off the pace.

Laurie Carroll, Victoria Golf Club professional was hitting the ball well but battled a balky putter through a trio of three-putt greens to wind up with a 75.

Norm Boden, unattached pro from Victoria, ran into a pair of sevens on the back nine and came in with an 82.

37, fired some of the day's most sensational shots as he came through the late afternoon rain with a four-under 31.

Playing before only a handful of the crowd of 6,730 that thronged over the course, Hawkins scrambled to this first-nine 37 by hitting two shots left-handed, when his ball was nestled against trees on the eighth and ninth holes. He picked up pars on both and then turned on the heat the rest of the way, putting together a string of five threes and four fours for his 31, best nine-hole score of opening day.

Magee, a raw-boned 24-year-old who has collected $2,500 during his first year on the big time circuit, was deadly with his iron shots as he steadily fashioned a pair of 34s.

Stroking approach shots close to the pin on almost every hole, he dropped birdie putts on the second, third, ninth and 13th greens.

'IT'S DISCRIMINATION'

B.C. Hunters Feel Slighted

By ERNIE FEDORUK

British Columbia hunters, forced to lay down their arms and ammunition because of the province-wide postponement of the hunting season, have found another target.

Indignant resident hunters are firing a verbal barrage at the department of recreation and conservation.

The postponement edict, however, is not the cause of the rising temperatures among the seasoned nimrods. It's the exemption clause of the department's order that is kindling much of the fire.

Under the department's order, hunters who do not use guides will be barred from Interior forests because of the fire threat. Hunters accompanied by licensed game guides may still enter the forests.

Fishermen, campers and hikers will still have the use of all forested areas except in the Vancouver district.

Many hunters agree that a closure is necessary. But, they added, if you want to keep one group of hunters out, why not keep all out?

Robert (Dibi) Noble, president of both the Victoria Gun Club and the B.C. Skeet Association, summed up the feelings of many Island hunters Thursday night.

"It's ridiculous," said Noble. "The average Canadian hunter—the man on the street who pays taxes—can not go into Canadian woods but hordes of Americans will be allowed to enter them. "Canadian guides do not favor Canadian hunters.

That's only logic, because the American hunter has more money to spend while most Canadian hunters simply cannot afford a guide. Canadians rarely hire guides.

"Why should a man who works for wages be denied a chance to go hunting when Americans and a privileged few can?"

Noble's views were backed up by other prominent B.C. sportsmen.

"It's rank discrimination," said G. M. Herman of Princeton president of the B.C. Interior Game Clubs Association.

"The casual camper, particularly the man out for the first time, is a far worse menace to forests than the hunter."

H. G. (Bert) Palmer, former president of the Federation of Fish and Game Clubs, called the order "ridiculous."

"Privileges should be the same for all," he said.

The grouse season was scheduled to open Saturday, but because of the ban, hunters have cancelled plans for weekend shooting. Last night's rain improved conditions, but game officials said today it was not expected to change the picture.

Weather checks were being made, an official of the department said, and definite word may be released later.

Milwaukee Icemen Need to Chill Bucs

By UP International
With San Francisco Giants packed away in cold storage, the Braves flew back to Milwaukee today fully confident of shutting the same freezer door on Pittsburgh Pirates this weekend.

The "icemen" from Milwaukee just about eliminated the Giants from the pennant race during their latest hop to the West Coast—winning four out of five games, including a 3-0 victory in Thursday's only major league game.

Now it's the Pirates' turn to "fish or cut bait". They open a three-game set at Milwaukee tonight, trailing the defending National League champions by 7 1/2 games. So they must shoot for a sweep because, like the Giants, time is running out on Danny Murtaugh's upstarts.
That shutout victory over the Giants, Thursday, lowered the Braves' "magic number" to 21. Even if Milwaukee wins only 14 of its remaining 27 games, the Pirates must win 23 of their final 28 engagements to walk off with the flag.
The Giants' chances are even slimmer. They now are nine games off the pace with 29 to play. So if the Braves play about 500 ball the rest of the way, San Francisco must produce a 25-4 record through the stretch.
Thus, if the Braves handle the Pirates this weekend the way they bumped off the Giants on the Coast, they can start chilling that pennant-clinching champagne.

The revised schedule:

Sept. 1—Drakes vs. Vampires.
Sept. 2—Vampires vs. North Shore.
AT ATHLETIC PARK (3 P.M.)

What's Nicer Than Stroll Around Park?

GRID SUMMARY

Pedal-pushers will get a stiff workout Saturday when the Victoria Bicycle Club sponsors its first Beacon Hill Park bicycle race.
Five events on the schedule, which starts at 2:30 p.m., will feature a 15-mile grind for the Moody Cup. The event has attracted a strong mainland contingent, headed by Vancouver's Italia Bicycle Club.
Other events planned are a five-mile "B" class race, a three-mile ladies' race, a three-mile junior lightweight race and a race for boys on stock bikes.
Leading Victoria entrants will include Ken Paskin, Bert Buchanan, Tom Pawlicki and Al Jones.
Vancouver riders will be headed by Luigi Zanatta, Mario Brunoro, Loris Quilici and Mike Carr, all of who took part in the Daily Times 100-mile Centennial race in June.

TIME OUT! JEFF KEATS
The first game of the double knockout tournament, starting at 6:30, will be Mayos' first direct shot at a provincial title.
But such is not the case with the Innkeepers, who have held the provincial title for the last four years. On the strength of past performances, Joe Bryant's Gorge gang will be strong favorites to retain the honors for a fifth time.
The other teams in the tournament, who square off at 1:30 Saturday, are Castlegar and Vancouver Pilseners.

Battered Giants Happy To Escape Bees' Nest

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Phoenix Giants bade a relieved adieu to Salt Lake City Bees for the last time in the 1958 Pacific Coast League campaign last night and then lifted a word of thanks to Sputnik III that they got out of Utah when they did.
As it was, the Giants were lucky to take leave of Utah with the league lead still in their possession, although their advantage was trimmed to a half-game over San Diego's Padres.

Gorge Rated Tops To Retain Crown

Duncan's Mayo Lumbermen will be stepping into strange terrain when they move off in quest of the B.C. senior A men's softball championship against Gorge Hotel tonight at Central Park.

The first game of the double knockout tournament, starting at 6:30, will be Mayos' first direct shot at a provincial title.
But such is not the case with the Innkeepers, who have held the provincial title for the last four years. On the strength of past performances, Joe Bryant's Gorge gang will be strong favorites to retain the honors for a fifth time.
The other teams in the tournament, who square off at 1:30 Saturday, are Castlegar and Vancouver Pilseners.

CLARKSON ON HAND
Castlegar will be carrying a wealth of experience with them, having played in the inter-provincial playdowns last season when Gorge was unable to make the trip. They also boast one of Victoria's top athletes in Bernie Clarkson. Clarkson played with Gorge in each of the four years when they won their titles.
Pilseners will display fine pitching strength in Bert Moberg and Don Danbert, while Mayos will rely mainly on the strong right arm of Mike Clegg, who won all four games in the local playoff series against Arrow Furniture.
Games have been scheduled twice daily at 1:30 and 6 p.m. at Central Park through to Monday, when the finals will be played.

WAKEHAM BRUSHED ASIDE IN JUNIOR GOLF EVENT

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—The two British Columbia golfers in the Pacific Northwest Junior golf tournament were eliminated Thursday in the quarter-finals.
Bill Wakeham of Victoria was defeated 5 and 4 by Gary Metzker of Seattle and Al Kennedy of Vancouver lost out to Larry Lee of Spokane, 3 and 2.
Lee meets medalist Pete Geertsens of Eugene, Ore., today in the 36-hole final. Geertsens defeated Metzker and Lee defeated Kelly Farris of Walla Walla in the semifinals.

THE RIGHT POWER...RIGHT DOWN THE LINE!

From the mountain-movin' Workmaster V8 in tandems down to the quick-stepping Thriftmaster 6 in pickups, Chevrolet trucks offer precisely the kind of power you need. Here are seven truck engines designed and built to work longer for less on your job.

WORKMASTER V8
Powered for top-tonnage hauling, this 348-cubic-inch V8 achieves peak efficiency with new "Wedge-Head" design. It packs a whopping 230 h.p.

HEAVY-DUTY SUPER TASKMASTER V8
This 283-cubic-inch V8—with 175 h.p.—is tough-built for tough jobs. Like the Workmaster, it has 4-barrel carburetor, dual exhaust.

HEAVY-DUTY TASKMASTER V8
Engineered to put more muscle into medium-duty hauls, this 283-cubic-inch V8 develops 160 h.p., has 8 to 1 compression ratio.

JOBMASTER 6
Built for dollar-saving durability, this high-torque 261-cubic-inch 6 hauls hefty loads with ease. It has 150 h.p., 8 to 1 compression ratio.

TRADEMASTER V8
This 283-cubic-inch V8 has the stay-on-the-job stamina that whips tight schedules. Delivers 160 h.p. with 8.5 to 1 compression ratio.

THRIFTMASTER 6
Tops for cutting cost corners on fast delivery jobs, this 235-cubic-inch engine develops 145 h.p., has spunky 8.25 to 1 compression ratio.

THRIFTMASTER 6 SPECIAL
Ruggedly built for Step-Vans and other Forward Control duty, it's got more "go" for stop-and-go hauling.

Prizes Given RCAF Cadets

Awards were presented to a group of high school students at a graduation parade at RCAF Urban Headquarters, 865 Yates, Thursday, following a two months' course under the RCAF Reserve Tradesmen's Training Plan.

There were 28 graduates, including seven girls, trained as clerk-typists, and 21 boys as fighter control operators.

Wing-Comdr. D. C. Cameron, Senior Air Staff Officer, 19 Wing Headquarters, Vancouver, and Sqdn. Ldr. R. D. Higgins, commanding officer, 2435 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, addressed the group after the parade.

Awards were presented to AW2 Diana F. McBratney, best clerk-typist; AC2 Frederick G.

Scriver, best fighter control operator; AC2 Joseph J. Trinca, outstanding individual on parade, and AW2 Maxine Edith McClure and AC2 George Arthur O'Brien, outstanding in extra curricular activities.

Members of the group have all signed into the auxiliary squadron or the regular air force.

TEN NAZI SS MEN JAILED FOR 5,202 WAR MURDERS

ULM, Germany (AP)—A West German court today sentenced 10 wartime Nazi SS officers and men to prison terms of from three to 15 years for the murder of 5,202 Lithuanian Jews in 1941.

The accused claimed they acted under orders and would have endangered their own lives had they done otherwise.

Teacherage Must Pay Taxes

City council Thursday balked at granting tax exemption to St. Louis College's teacherage and asked intermunicipal committee to study the whole question.

A finance committee recommendation that the teacherage be exempted by council was not passed despite similar exemptions to other private school teacherages last year.

Aldermen M. H. Mooney,

Geoffrey Edgewood and Elmer McEwen said the situation was getting out of hand.

"So far as I'm concerned, we're exempting private dwellings and I think it is time to change the policy," said Ald. Mooney.

Ald. McEwen said he felt exemption should be given all or none of the teacherages. But he felt it was time to review past policy.

Ald. Edgewood made a motion referring the matter to intermunicipal committee in the hope that a uniform policy could be set. The motion passed.

In Anglo-Saxon times every man's life had a fixed money value called the wergild, to be paid if he was murdered.

MONTE ROBERTS

My faith in women—if it ever wavered—is now completely restored, and, indeed, strengthened to the ultimate. This is because of a volume which must be counted the book of the century.

It is called the Centennial Cook Book, and is the work of the British Columbia Women's Institutes.

Now, I am not such a one who usually whiles away the idle hours perusing cook books.

But I am here to tell you, there is more good solid reading, more sheer ecstatic enjoyment, in the Centennial Cook Book than in a year's subscription to any five leading magazines.

Right from the very beginning, this product of the good women of the Women's Institutes of B.C. strikes a sound, practical, honest note.

It states in the foreword: "In the days of the caveman... man was satisfied to eat his meat raw, and women knew their lot was to be dragged around by the hair of their heads. When cooked food became acceptable, women were given the job of cooking and they have been at it ever since."

You see what the Women's Institutes are getting at? Mind your cooking, or else you'll be dragged around by the hair of your head.

Well, the Women's Institutes are doing their best to see this doesn't happen to any woman who comes in contact with the Centennial Cook Book.

Just reading the Cook Book is enough to send a man drooling out of his mind. Any woman who can cook according to this Cook Book will not only get her man, her man will bring home all his friends, too.

Because this is a Cook Book which deals strictly with FOOD.

There isn't a rolled asparagus sandwich, with or without mayonnaise, in all 298 pages. Nor is their evidence of any of the other more malignant forms of Foo (as distinct from Food) which infest this modern day.

Just for example, the Cariboo Women's Institute has 10 pages of the Cook Book in which to set forth its favorite recipes.

And what do all those recipes deal with?

Meat, that's what they deal with! Beef and pork and venison and bear, spare ribs and sausage, on each and every one of those 10 delectable pages.

And right here and now, let me point out another virtue of the Cook Book. There is no nonsense of setting ovens at 324 degrees for 15 minutes, reducing to 300 for 17 seconds, and so on.

No, sir. In this Cook Book, you put things in the oven, or on the stove, and you cook UNTIL DONE.

As just one example, let me quote the recipe for roast venison: "Cover a roast of venison with a paste made of flour and water. This paste should be one inch thick. Cover the paste with a sheet of butter paper. About half-hour before the roast is done remove the paste, baste well and brown off."

I could go on and on. But please, get your own copy of the Centennial Cook Book. You'll treasure it always.

'NEW LOOK' IN DISTRICT SCHOOLS

Students Like New Ruling on Dress

By JOHN MIKA

School opening Wednesday will bring a sweeping change in styles of dress for Greater Victoria students this year.

Many parents will breathe a sigh of relief as they send their children back to the high schools dressed in a sensible fashion by order of the school board.

To demonstrate the old and the new modes, Dave Cutler, 3631 Cedar Hill, and Sylvia Byers, 1679 Cedar, modelled the before and after fashions resulting from a new code of dress requirements issued by the board.

First donning sensible clothes and making sure they were neat, the 13-year-old

Grade 8 students at Lansdowne Junior High also demonstrated the type of wear that will be banished as a memory.

The board's code will be sent to parents of 7,000 pupils in Grades 7 to 12 on opening day.

For girls, it rules out exaggerated hair styles, heavy make-up, elaborate jewellery, tight-fitting skirts and sweaters and impractical footwear.

For boys, gone are the days of fancy haircuts and sideburns, tight-fitting, over-draped or low-waist trousers, gaudy shirts hanging outside of the trousers, more than the top shirt button undone, and "Wellington" or other metal-shod boots and shoes.

Boys also will be forbidden to wear in classrooms leather or other jackets with metal flashings, or running shoes.

The code, believed first issued by a B.C. school board under new authority in the Public Schools Act, was requested by PTA groups.

And how do the students feel about it?

"We think it's a good thing," said Dave and Sylvia.

So did most of the high school students who filled out questionnaires during the last term.

Here are the two models:

Sylvia, in best school fashion.

This style is out.

Dave... neat and tidy.

Double Bail Set In Cheque Case

Evidence Indicates $500,000 Involved

Evidence of a cheque forgery ring that could reach to half-million-dollar proportions was presented at a preliminary hearing in Saanich police court Thursday.

Bail for income tax refund cheque forgery suspect William Black, 32, of Vancouver, was doubled to $5,000 by Magistrate H. C. Hall at conclusion of the hearing's first sitting.

Detectives from Saanich, Victoria, Vancouver, and the RCMP unearthed the massive bulk of evidence during an investigation into a whirlwind cheque-cashing binge at 15 Greater Victoria banks which realized $4,736.70 in a 3½-hour period July 24.

Twenty-two of 47 crown witnesses were called to the stand in Thursday's 2½-hour initial sitting of the preliminary hearing.

The remaining 25 witnesses will be called next Thursday in an effort to complete the case for the prosecution.

Magistrate Hall accepted a staggering 59 exhibits, mostly documents—several of these bundles containing hundreds of cheque blanks—which were brought into the courtroom in three large cardboard cartons.

He appointed Saanich deputy chief of police John Hamilton as custodian of the exhibits until next Thursday's sitting.

Income Tax Refunds Basis of Charge

City prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie told the hearing the volume of cheques unearthed had a prospective value of $500,000.

Specifically, Black is charged with attempting to deal with a forged document made out in the name of Richard Marshall, 2502 Brighton, in the amount of $263.15.

It purported to be a Government of Canada income tax refund cheque, dated July 3, 1958.

All of 18 cheques cashed at Greater Victoria banks were identical to it, crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie said.

A man—not the accused—tried to cash this cheque at the Saanich branch of the Bank of Montreal, 3450 Quadra, bank manager Melvin George Genge told the hearing.

The cheque was referred to him personally for approval and he asked the man for identification, he said in court.

When the man found he did not have any in his wallet he said he would get some identification from his car, turned and walked outside, Mr. Genge said.

The manager signalled to an assistant to follow, which he did, and the would-be cheque passer ran from the bank to a parked car with another man at the wheel, the hearing was told. The assistant took the car's licence number, he said.

Mr. Genge gave chase in his own car when the other auto sped away. The banker said he drove at speeds up to 90 miles an hour along Cloverdale toward Douglas Street but did not catch up to the fleeing car.

Fleeing Car Stopped on Malahat

A police block finally stopped the car on the Malahat and it was identified by Mr. Genge by its color and the fact it had a leak in the gas tank, the hearing was told.

Cons. Gordon Irvine, of Colwood RCMP detachment, said he stopped the car, a U-Drive driven by Black, who was arrested for questioning.

Black was alone in the car, Cons. Irvine said.

Det.-Sgt. Joseph Armstrong, of Saanich police, said an investigation was commenced here and continued in Vancouver.

He identified 41 exhibits which he said he obtained from the RCMP and Vancouver detectives.

Banks Marked in Phone Directories

Among the pile of exhibits were portions of Edmonton and Victoria telephone directories, he said.

Two parts of the latter listed banks as shown in the directory's yellow pages, and there were marks after 18 bank locations, the officer pointed out.

Much of the documentary evidence was found wrapped in a blanket in the Fraser River, when co-operation of the mainland RCMP was called in. More was found in Vancouver in a suite occupied by Black. It included printing and punching apparatus and a revolver. Black admitted ownership of the latter.

Most of the witnesses were tellers and bank employees who cashed or approved the cheques offered for payment July 24.

Some described the cheque passer as a man between 25 and 30 years old, clean-cut, wearing smart clothing, including a tweed jacket. He was about six feet tall and wore his dark hair in a crew cut.

In requesting an increase in Black's bail, which stood at $2,500 cash, Mr. McKenzie pointed out the value of cheques cashed in Victoria alone totalled $5,000 and he submitted $2,500 was totally inadequate.

Defence counsel James Proudfoot said since his client appeared at the hearing Thursday he had no reason to think he would not reappear next week and $2,500 bail was adequate, he felt.

Magistrate Hall said he felt the amount should be increased to at least $5,000. Whether this would be cash or sureties could be decided when the new application for bail was made, he said.

The original $50,000 was approved at the last session of the legislature under special expenditures for the provincial secretary's department.

The cabinet order reads: "It is estimated that an additional sum of $80,000 is required to take care of actual expenditure incurred in connection with various Centennial Year events carried out by the government."

Vandals Drag Bull to Death On Millstream

A young Holstein bull stolen from a Millstream Road farm early today and apparently tied behind a truck, died when it fell and was dragged along the road.

Mrs. Ivor Maberley, Millstream Road, said the animal was securely tethered a half-mile from the farmhouse.

"The tether was removed, and we think it was led away behind a truck, and probably died when it fell and was dragged."

It was found about 200 yards from the farm, by the side of the road.

The animal was found by a passing motorist, Mrs. Maberley said. Another motorist on the scene, she added, said he had "run into it."

"People can come out into this unorganized territory and get away with things like this," Mrs. Maberley said. "They are just after free beef."

"This sort of thing has happened before. It is criminal. It's not the price of the bull so much—but what a way to treat an animal!"

Police are investigating.

Fishing Boat Safe After Big Air Hunt

An all-night search by a U.S. Coast Guard plane in the Neah Bay area, joined today by an RCAF Canoe, two Coast Guard cutters, and a general alert to all vessels in the vicinity, ended at noon today—with success.

A vessel which had radioed at 10.15 p.m. Thursday that she was sinking turned up safely—moored alongside the jetty at the U.S. Coast Guard station, Neah Bay.

Gertrude, a fishing vessel, sent out a Mayday (SOS message) picked up by another fisherman, Willie K., which could not read the identity of location of Gertrude. Message was relayed to Coast Guard and the RCAF Search and Rescue Centre, Vancouver.

The search was in full swing when a terse radio message from the Coast Guard said the vessel was safely in harbor, towed there during the night by another fishboat.

There was no explanation.

City Woman Hurt In Street Mishap

Mrs. Olive Maggs, 51, 1910 Denman, was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital today suffering a broken right hip sustained when she was in collision with a car about 9 a.m. while crossing the Government-Bay intersection.

Driver of the car was George W. Burkmer, 423 Luxton.

Mrs. Maggs was crossing Government from east to west on the south side of Bay when the accident occurred.

Civil Servants' Salaries Quoted

The average monthly wage paid to B.C. civil servants in July this year was $305 against $277 in July last year, Premier Bennett said today.

The premier said he had just obtained these figures from the civil service commission. He made no comment.

SCHOOL CRACKDOWN POLICY NOT NEW

A spokesman for the B.C. Education Department emphasized today that under the B.C. Education Act, as amended at the last session, students of 15 or over who do not apply themselves to their studies or do not comply with rules and regulations may be expelled.

"This amendment was to strengthen the hands of school boards and school principals,"

the spokesman said. "No further orders-in-council have been issued."

He was commenting on a report that there had been a recent change in school board regulations.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Appetites To Be Hearty This Holiday Weekend!

By PENNY SAVER

All sorts of special food treats are planned by the local shops for this coming Labor Day weekend! In fact, some of them are so good and yet so inexpensive even the tightest of budgets won't feel the slightest pull!

Appetites will be hearty too, so plan well in advance . . . and enjoy a relaxed holiday.

Lamb stew is a good basic dish. If you're planning to go on a trip, prepare and cook a large pot of lamb meat and vegetables at home, cap it tightly and warm over the campfire or cottage stove. Lamb stew meat is priced at 29 cents a pound.

Parsnips are on the produce stands . . . and this vegetable adds a tasty touch to stew! Fat, nutritious parsnips are two bunches for 29 cents.

Brussel sprouts have just arrived from California. A pound of sprouts is 25 cents.

Spinach is very popular at present . . . probably for its reasonable price and high vitamin content! Can you believe it? It's now two pounds for 39 cents.

Something different, too, are juicy Mexican papayas. This large pear-like fruit is selling at 49 cents a piece. It makes lovely dessert eating!

Summer salads are still the top of the ladder as far as eating goes! Local lettuce is 15 cents; radishes at two bunches, 15 cents; onions, 10 cents a bunch.

It won't be a perfect meal if there's no blackberry pie! And all you blackberry lovers won't want to miss this buy on scrumptious crusty pies made with fresh Vancouver Island berries! The berries are cooked right in the pie. They are 50 cents each.

Marketing for the long weekend? Then don't forget to call me at 2-3131, I'll tell you where I shopped!

BIRTHDAY GIFT FOR DAUGHTER'S FIANCE

My daughter's fiance is having a birthday next month. Would it be proper for me to give him a gift and, if so, what would be suitable? The couple became engaged a week ago and will be married in October.

Louise Davis

Answers: You might as well consider the young man as Louise Davis almost a member of your family, as he will soon be your son-in-law. A gift of some kind of remembrance would be fitting and appropriate. Think of the pleasure and assurance you would give him, not necessarily because of the gift, but because of your sincere desire to give. It's another way of saying "Welcome." Should you ignore the birthday, he might think that you don't approve of the engagement or marriage. I suggest that you give him something personal. Perhaps he might like monogrammed handkerchiefs, a book, cuff links, tie clasp. Your daughter should be able to help you with ideas. prompt. I am sure she will want you there before the others arrive, as you are to be the guest of honor.

Twisted Wire Is Artistic Medium For Unorthodox Scottish Artist

NEW YORK (N.Y.) — Valerie Clarebout looks like an artist, lives like an artist and talks like an artist. It would be a shock to find that she wasn't.

Therefore, why shock people? She is an artist, but of a new ilk — a three-dimensional wire artist which means she twists and pulls and shoves 3,000 pounds of aluminum a year, plus a few hundred more of brass and copper wire, into delicate figures.

After a hard day's work, she has a consolation. She is never alone in her Greenwich Village studio for on the walls of the barnlike workshop are deer with muscles bunched for flight. And also hanging rakishly are angels. The latter would recall to the millions who saw them her winged angels which graced Rockefeller Plaza promenade for Christmas of 1954.

Her blue eyes twinkle as she admits that life in these United States is much better now than when she came from England six years ago. She had $15 in her pocket and samples tucked under her arms.

TALK OF THE TOWN

She enjoys telling stories about herself and does a good job of it. She related how she became the talk of Buffalo once because she arrived in the train station at 4 a.m. and proceeded to curl up and sleep on the floor.

"I may be untidy in my life," she chuckled as she looked around colorful living quarters behind the studio, "but I am always punctual and methodical in my work."

From this she went on to score artists who used tempera as an excuse for not delivering a commission on time.

"An artist's temperament should go into the work and not into the delivery of the work. Guess it is just my Scottish nature that leads to my punctuality."

Miss Clarebout began sculpturing in other materials before she sifted to wire. The transition came while she was on another job.

"Oh, what a beautiful piece of wire. May I take it home?" was the clarion call to her present bread-and-butter work. But even as a school girl she used her artistic talents ingeniously. She made a deal with fellow students in history to do her homework in history and geography in return for a monogram or drawing. And she is still swapping. The latest — her work for a crazy quilt.

A graceful wire angel soars on the wall over Valerie Clarebout's head in her barnlike Greenwich Village studio.

She denies that metal work seems cold to a viewer and admits to a tongue-in-cheek humor which can be seen in the twists and turns of her wires.

Many projects that help pay the rent are definitely commercial and dull, she admitted, and then told how she overcame this.

"I approach such a job by creating a new process with which to work which takes all dullness out of it."

LIVES ABOVE CLUB

Always busy, she says her day is 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., but often begins earlier because she lives above a Greenwich Village night club.

"And once they wake you up, you might as well go to work."

Among four projects going, she is doing her first mural of wire and tiles — for a public building. It is for a junior high school in Rockaway, Queens.

Unlike many artists, she has never seen the finished work she has done for department stores, restaurants and public buildings throughout the United States.

Although her jobs keep her hopping, she does have a hobby besides mothering two dachshunds . . . learning to drive. Presently, getting a license seems in the dim future. "I've failed two tests so far," she said.

But being behind in her luck doesn't seem to faze this Bea Lillie with a Scottish burr. She can always think back to the $1,000 advance cheque for her Christmas angels in Rockefeller Plaza. The day she received it, she was broke and living on cheese, macaroni and tea. But she continued on this diet another two days. No one would cash the cheque. It was Saturday and the banks were closed.

TODAY'S RECIPE

HONEY BEETS

Three cups cooked beets, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons honey, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 cup vinegar.

Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and honey, stirring constantly. Gradually add water and vinegar. Cook until slightly thickened, about 5 minutes. Add beets, and re-heat. Six servings.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

She Feels Unattractive Because of Her Height

(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I have a complex about my height. I am 5 feet 10 inches tall. I have a pretty face (they tell me) and a good figure, but feel so unattractive because of my height."

A. DON'T! Many of today's most beautiful women are tall. Models, remember, are much taller than average. The important thing is not to allow this feeling of yours to make you slump. You can be stunning-looking if you carry yourself well. You also can lessen the impression of height with clothes. Use horizontal lines, belts of a different color from your outfit, and color contrasting skirts and tops.

Q. "My legs, arms, face and neck are a deep suntan. I do not think this will be flattering with winter clothes. How can I get rid of it without taking too long?"

A. Suntan just has to have time to fade out. There are products on the market which are mild bleaches. Cucumber juice and lemon juice are also. Unless your skin is very oily you should dilute the lemon juice before applying it.

Q. "I am 27 years of age and want to know if I can straighten my back at my age. Are there exercises which would do this?"

A. It would have been easier when younger but you can make a lot of improvement, and, just as important, you can keep the condition from progressing. It will with age unless you take measures now. Your chest muscles probably have shortened and your back muscles weakened. Therefore do not become discouraged.

Do the following two exercises. Stand tall with your arms at your sides. Raise the arms forward, shoulder height and shoulder width apart. Do this in a relaxed manner. Now fling the arms sideward backward as far as comfortable.

Feel the pull? Return arms to forward position. Continue. Another: Take the end of a small rope in each hand, rope behind the body. Put the rope over a bedpost with your back toward the bed. Hold firmly to the rope as you let your body fall forward, knees stiff. Remain in this position for a short time. Bend your knees and stand erect. Continue.

Successful Artist Dispels Parents' Fears
Of Genteel Starving in a Bohemian Garret

NEW YORK (NEA)—A whisker here, a whisker there. And with a "there, that's finished" air, Gyo Fujikawa glances up from the Mother Goose-like character on her drawing board.

Her gaze moves from the design for a baby cereal package to the nooks of her Manhattan studio-apartment. Yes, she thinks, it's far from the artist's garret her parents feared she would occupy.

As a little girl in her native Los Angeles, Gyo brushed aside family warnings about the hungry life of artists.

"Looking back at it now," she says, "I guess I was quite an enigma . . . to my parents and everyone else. Instead of playing with dolls and toys like other seven-year-olds, I'd try to sketch flowers and animals in a childish sort of way. Even then I seemed to know what I wanted to be when I grew up."

Gyo was determined to be a successful artist. It was rough going, she admits now. With a shy smile, Gyo explains that her parents were just being parents when they objected to her future plans.

"Not that they opposed me outright," she hastily adds. "But like all practical parents they wanted to be sure that I could take care of myself and eventually become self-supporting. The life of an artist, they thought was too uncertain. They felt that college would be better than going to art school."

Gyo Fujikawa sits at drawing board in her chic Manhattan studio-apartment, a far cry from the stereotyped garret.

Once out of high school she set her small feet in a determined path. But like many others she discovered there is more to success than talent.

"Talent is necessary, of course. But that's only part of the story," Gyo confides. "As in anything else, it takes lots of

At Chouinard Art Institute, she studied drawing, painting, design and layout. Then her artistic thoughts turned to the land of her ancestors, Japan. She feels a year's intensive study in Japanese brush drawing is a great help now.

"Brush drawing," she explains, "is an intensely specialized type of work calling for an extraordinary amount of study, patience and precise execution."

"It is not uncommon for an artist to study his subject for days in order to observe every detail of line and form before applying brush to paper."

Free lancing in California followed her Japanese sojourn and then she turned her talents to the make-believe world of Walt Disney. Gyo loves drawing for and about children. And she feels the Disney technique rubbed off in many ways, especially in her animal and nature drawings.

If an occasional poodle character gets into her illustrations, it could be Suzu (Little Bell) or Kiku (Chrysanthemum). These charming rascals share her apartment and occasionally kibitz at the drawing board.

Even though Gyo eased her parent's worry about her future, she isn't going to sit back and relax.

"No artist can afford to stand still," she says. "There are too many changes taking place all the time to permit complacency and self-satisfaction."

MEDICAL GROUP TO PRODUCE A SAFE BIRTH CONTROL PILL

LONDON (AP)—A British medical group asked today for 1,000 wives to volunteer for a world-wide family planning experiment to produce a safe birth control pill.

Dr. Beric H. Wright, medical secretary of the newly-formed Council for the Investigation of Fertility Control, said the organization plans to carry out the tests for a pill that can be swallowed and prevent pregnancy.

Wright said he already has 300 volunteers to test new methods of birth control whose effectiveness has not yet been established. An American doctor has produced a pill, Wright said, but British physicians are not certain that it is safe.

The tests will range over a two-year period. It is hoped to narrow down known methods to the best one.

Then the medical organization hopes to develop a simple contraceptive pill that can be taken orally.

Canadian at American Consulate
Helps Trade Between Countries

TORONTO (CP)—Sarah Sally Brook, who was born in England and brought up in Toronto, likes working for the United States.

Miss Brooks is commercial assistant to the economics officer at the United States consulate-general here.

"That means I have a vested interest in improving trade between Canada and the United States," she said.

HELPS BUSINESS

Part of the job is to help Canadian businessmen use opportunities in the United States market. Miss Brook is in charge of a library at the consulate which contains all kinds of trade periodicals and reports.

The department also operates a service where Canadians who wish, for instance, to represent U.S. firms or do sub-contract work with U.S. companies, can make their needs known through U.S. commerce department publications.

Working for the U.S. here means Miss Brooks must know about Canada. She assists her boss, John L. Hill, consul and economic officer, to prepare reports for the state department from studies of Canadian industries and products.

ANSWERS QUERIES

On the other hand, she must know plenty about the United States in order to answer inquiries from Canadians.

"In addition to other duties, I have something approaching an information service here," she said.

She gets all sorts of questions, and if she hasn't got the answer immediately she makes it her business to find out.

"I've worked at the consulate 29 years," she explained, "and I think my job helps to bring Canada and the U.S. closer together."

Adelaide Hawley Cumming, television's Betty Crocker, will be the speaker at meeting of Women's Canadian Club next Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. in the Empress Hotel. Subject will be "A Look at the Future"—a consideration of how the great advances being made in science today will affect women as homemakers and as human beings.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Michael Abrams, aged 10, of Beachwood, Ohio, for his question:

How Did the Petrified Forest Become Petrified?

The Petrified Forest is a beautiful barren land of colored hills and sandy plains. Next door is the gaudy Painted Desert. Some 145 square miles of this scenic territory has been set aside by the United States as a national monument. Countless visitors drive to eastern Arizona to admire this two-in-one spectacle every year.

But this land was not always a desert of bare, barren rocks. In the late Triassic Period, between 160 and 170 million years ago, it was a well-watered forest land. The sea, which is now the distant Gulf of Mexico, lapped over southern Arizona at that time. Northern Arizona was a shore line where at least one gushing river flooded into the sea.

Great trees, some of them with giant trunks, grew in what is now the barren desert. From time to time one of these huge trees fell to the ground. Some were struck down by arrows of lightning, others collapsed with the burden of years. And from red and flaming orange to the petrified wood.

Hundreds of ancient tree trunks were turned to stone in the stagnant swamp. Finally the sea receded and the silty area became a dry, barren desert. Only the petrified trees remained to tell of the proud forest that once grew there.

The petrified wood can be cut and polished to a high gloss. And, with a magnifying glass, you can see it is a perfect copy of woody cells.

Shorter Barber Shop Hours Now Official

City council Thursday agreed to make shorter barbershop hours official.

City solicitor was instructed to draw up a bylaw setting barbershop hours at 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with an all-Wednesday closing.

Request was made in a petition of 46 out of 50 city barbershops.

Barbers' spokesman J. W. McAree told council that although present regulations allow a 6 p.m. closing, barbershops have been shutting down at 5:30 p.m. for several months.

"We want that on the books now," he said.

Yukon Territory Commissioner Centennial Guest

F. H. Collins, commissioner of the Yukon Territory, will arrive in Victoria next week as a special centennial guest of the people of British Columbia.

F. H. Collins, commissioner of the Yukon Territory, will arrive in Victoria next week as a special centennial guest of the people of British Columbia.

Mr. Collins, accompanied by his wife, will be welcomed by provincial centennial committee officials at Pat Bay airport on Tuesday at 11:45 a.m. After luncheon at the Empress Hotel, he will be received by Premier Bennett at the Legislative Buildings at 3 p.m., and by Mayor Scurrell at the city hall at 4 p.m.

On Wednesday he will be received by other members of the B.C. cabinet.

Play Safe While You Drive!

Keep alert—chew gum

Avoid traffic jitters and driving drowsiness. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension—helps keep you feeling fresh and alert for safer driving. Chew any brand of gum you like but chew while you drive. Naturally, we recommend refreshing, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum—for lively, satisfying flavour and real chewing enjoyment.

Stone Perfect Copy of Wood

The exchange was made in tiny detail, a molecule of stone for a molecule of wood. In this way the stone built up a perfect copy of the woody cells of the fallen tree. Most of the stony material was silicate and the trees were copied in opal, agate, carnelian, jasper and onyx. These are glossy and colorful semi-precious materials. There were also dissolved metals in the stagnant water. These added rich tones of rust, red and flaming orange to the petrified wood.

Hundreds of ancient tree trunks were turned to stone in the stagnant swamp. Finally the sea receded and the silty area became a dry, barren desert. Only the petrified trees remained to tell of the proud forest that once grew there.

The petrified wood can be cut and polished to a high gloss. And, with a magnifying glass, you can see it is a perfect copy of woody cells.

Big Atom Police Role for Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada will be given a leading watchdog role in any globe-girdling atomic control system if the world powers decide to ban all nuclear tests, it was learned Thursday.

U.S. CLAIM

'We Can Spy On World From Moon'

THE HAGUE (AP)—A U.S. Congressman reported today that the United States has developed electronic equipment which can use the moon to "tell what is going on" on the entire surface of the earth.

"We can monitor the whole world," Republican Representative James G. Fulton of Pennsylvania told reporters after referring publicly to the moon system at the meeting here of the International Astronautical Federation.

"This equipment now is being installed," he said. "It uses the moon as an artificial satellite. It is startling. It is a great breakthrough."

Fulton hinted that the system could detect instantaneously nuclear explosions or launching of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Cuban Crews Work Former CNS Vessels

HALIFAX (CP)—Two former Canadian freighters lost their names Wednesday as Cuban crews went back to work for the new owners of what was once the Canadian National Steamships West Indies fleet.

Earlier one of the Cuban seamen said he and his mates would not work the ships since they were strikebound by the Seamen's International Union (CLC). He said the men did not know about the strike when brought here to work the ships.

ARROW BOOMS ALONG AT 1,000 MPH PLUS

OTTAWA (CP)—The batwinged CF-105—Canada's only supersonic jet—hit its highest rate of speed Thursday, starting capital residents with a window-rattling sonic boom.

An air force spokesman said the CF-105, flying at 50,000 feet on a flight from Toronto, went well over 1,000 miles an hour. The exact speed was not revealed.

BRITANNIAS BEAT CLOCK

There Before They Start

LONDON (AP)—The Bristol Aircraft Company claimed Thursday night its turbo-prop Britannia airliner has become the first airliner to beat the clock on scheduled service across the Pacific from Japan to arrive at Vancouver at 4 p.m. local time the same day.

A Bristol spokesman explained that Britannias operated by Canadian Pacific Airlines leave Tokyo at 6 p.m. local time and

Atlas Hits Bullseye

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A 100-ton Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile blasted 3,000 miles through space Thursday night and hit right on target.

The second straight U.S. success with a fully-powered Atlas was a major stride toward the air force's goal of developing an operational ICBM within the next two years.

The 85-foot Atlas rose with a tremendous roar, The missile's flaming exhaust was seen in the clear night sky for more than four minutes.

The Atlas, powered by twin booster rockets and a sustainer engine generating a total of about 350,000 pounds of thrust, was equipped with a radio-command guidance system for the first time.

The command guidance assures greater on-target accuracy and permits continuous ground control during the powered

Adams River Run Spills Into Nets

(From CP Dispatches)
VANCOUVER—Fishermen say the vanguard of the famous Adams River sockeye run has arrived at the mouth of the Fraser River.

First signs of the huge run appeared in fishermen's nets Thursday, and gillnetters were reported catching 35 to 40 sockeye with every drift during the day. Some boats caught up to 200 fish per drift.

The catch is expected to improve daily as the run comes slowly south between the B.C. mainland and Vancouver Island. The scene at the rivermouth is one of activity and excitement. Thursday night lights from massed fishing boats made the fleet resemble a city after dark.

FIREFIGHTERS FLEE

BURNS LAKE—Eighty firefighters were forced to flee when a forest fire burned out of control in Tweedsmuir Park Thursday.

Officials said the fire, about 80 miles south of here, broke out of control so quickly that all equipment was lost.

The fire burned 8,000 feet of hose, raced through tents and light fire-fighting equipment.

GROCER FOILS BANDIT

VANCOUVER—A tenacious little Chinese grocer ran a suspect to ground in Thursday night's downpour after a robbery attempt on his East Hastings store.

The chase ended 30 minutes after the hold-up in a rooming-house one block from the store where police trapped a youth in his second-storey room.

It was a case of once bitten twice sore for 38-year-old John Sam when the bandit walked

New Schedule For Ferries

Fall schedules on the Sidney-Anacortes service of Washington State Ferries will go into effect Wednesday.

Two trips daily will be operated through Oct. 13, then one trip daily from Oct. 14 to Oct. 31, when the service will be discontinued for the winter.

The company will continue its daily four-trip schedule, Victoria-Port Angeles, until season's end, Sept. 16.

Boat Thieves Face Danger

NANAIMO—A missing cabin cruiser owned by Harry Donald might have been stolen by two boys of 14 and 15 who escaped from Brannan Lake School, according to RCMP.

The 18-foot craft is driven by a 30-horsepower outboard motor. Also missing are gasoline and a five-gallon can of stove oil. If they are used as an engine fuel mixture serious damage will be caused, police said.

NEWLY-APPOINTED judge of the juvenile court at Port Alberni is William E. MacLeod, the B.C. Cabinet announced today. He succeeds Thomas Milton Patterson, who has resigned.

Deep Cove Chalet Suspended by LCB

SIDNEY—Deep Cove Chalet will be closed until Sept. 3, according to the Liquor Control Board.

It was shut down Aug. 26. The hotel was involved in court cases here recently involving a juvenile and a minor, and for not keeping a proper register of employees.

Saanich Ideas On Thetis Lake Given Brushoff

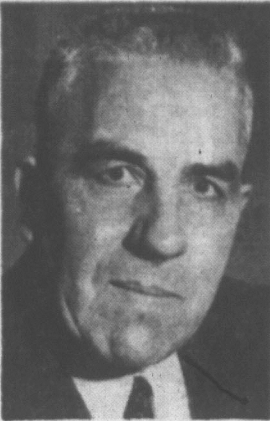

A Saanich hint that the city would benefit by a report on the feasibility of allowing power boats to use Thetis Lake was given a courteous rebuff by council Thursday.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said Victoria was qualified to handle its own affairs and its own lakes.

"In other words we should thank them for their kind interest and tell them we're not interested," he said.

Council adopted his motion to receive and file Saanich's suggestion that the city ask the Capital Region Planning Board for a report on power boat use of Thetis Lake. Saanich recently asked for a similar report on Elk and Prospect Lakes.

Ald. M. H. Mooney argued that the city should co-operate with Saanich's request but he made no headway in the debate.

APPOINTMENT of Denzil Ashby of Sidney as juvenile court judge at Sidney for the Islands electoral district, to succeed F. J. Baker who will retire on 75th birthday Monday, has been announced by B.C. cabinet. Mr. Ashby, formerly with the RCMP, has served as sergeant-at-arms in the B.C. Legislature during the past two sessions, and was appointed stipendiary magistrate for Sidney in January, 1957.

British Columbia's first pulp and paper mill was built about 1894, in Port Alberni. Due to lack of technical knowledge and inexperience of the operators, the enterprise went bankrupt.

School Cafeteria Burns

NANAIMO (CP)—A four-hour fire of undetermined origin destroyed the cafeteria at Nanaimo Senior High School early today and caused extensive damage to two gymnasiums.

Damage was estimated at $150,000. School principal J. Litch said there appeared to be no necessity to delay opening of the fall term. Prompt action by the fire department in closing fire doors saved classrooms and offices.

The school was built in 1952 at a cost of more than $1,000,000.

Island Ferry Trials Held

SIDNEY—New ferry built in Vancouver for use by Coast Ferries Ltd. on its Gulf Islands service now is undergoing trials. Capt. O. H. New, company president, said here this week.

He expects to see the new passenger-car ferry in service shortly after Labor Day. It will operate out of Vancouver to Gallano, Salt Spring, Mayne, Pender, and Saturna Islands.

FINAL BULLETINS

Surrey Clinches 7th Cricket Title

LONDON (Reuters)—Surrey, with three matches still to play, today was assured of winning the County cricket championship for the seventh consecutive year.

Surrey took the title again when play was abandoned today in a match between Hampshire and Yorkshire at Bournemouth because of rain.

Wonder Miler Battles Off 3.58 Victory

MALMOE, Sweden (AP)—Herb Elliott, Australia's 20-year-old wonder miler, ran a mile in the magnificent time of 3.58 tonight. Only Thursday he ran 1,500 metres in a world record time of 2.36.

Taxi Men Claim Teamster Bomb Threat

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two Winnipeg taxi officials today said they received telephone calls from an anonymous caller who told them to "knuckle down to the teamsters or have your house dynamited."

Frank Boothroyd, general manager of Moore's Taxi Limited, and Albert Kern, supervisor, reported the calls to police.

Missing Boat Feared in Storm Path

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard pressed a search over a large expanse of the Atlantic today for a 47-foot pleasure boat with five men aboard that has not been heard from since it left Bermuda six days ago. The Coast Guard said the boat, the Golden Eye, might be in the direct path of hurricane Daisy.

U.S. Announces Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States announced today that 10 small nuclear blasts will be fired in the Nevada Desert during the next two months prior to the Oct. 31 nuclear test ban proposed by President Eisenhower.

Defence Blasts 'Trial by Gossip' In Sommers Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Defence lawyer J. R. Nicholson wound up the case for his timber executive client in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial today, saying many people had already decided the case on the basis of rumor and gossip.

Summing up to the jury for Pacific Coast Services president H. W. Gray, Mr. Nicholson said the public had been regaled for months with stories about the case because it involved a minister of the Crown, former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

"This was one reason, he said, why jury trials were valuable. It was the jurors' duty to decide the issue, not on rumor and gossip, but on the facts.

EVERSFIELD 'SCHEMER'
Eversfield's credibility was one of the key issues, the lawyer said, and in the eyes of the defence he was nothing less than "a schemer, a blackmailer and a liar."

He had taken the documents to use as ammunition in an attempt to blackmail Gray and his firm for $10,000 or a life partnership, Gray should be commended that he had resisted this attempt. The lawyer said Eversfield had done well financially out of the case. He had received $1,700 from Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy and as a Crown witness had been paid $60 a day for months. He was now a free man in Los Angeles with this money in his pocket.

Mr. Nicholson also criticized the Crown for "the long delay" in laying of the charges and said it had resulted in prejudice to the defence.

'NOT CRIMINAL'
Thursday, the lawyer said that Gray may have acted "imprudently and unwisely" but was not a criminal nor guilty of criminal acts.

Mr. Nicholson said the Crown mainly rested its case on the evidence of Eversfield, the former Pacific Coast Services Ltd. bookkeeper who took numerous documents from the company files before he left his job in 1955.

Mr. Nicholson said the jury

'On Your Own' Says U.K. Paper

LONDON (Reuters)—The Manchester Guardian says the United States would be "on its own" if it backed Nationalist China in defence of the offshore islands in the Formosa Strait.

The Guardian says a temporary humiliation for the United States would be preferable to a major war.

The U.S. has no irrevocable commitment to the defence of Formosa and Matsuo although it is committed to the defence of Formosa, The Guardian adds.

"True, Quemoy might never have become such a bastion for Formosa—physical and psychological—if President Eisenhower had been unambiguous in 1955.

"Because of his deliberate vagueness then and ever since then, the Nationalists have been able to reinforce Quemoy and the United States cannot now disregard what happens there."

CENTENNIAL OPEN

Burly U.S. Pros Set Killing Pace

By DOUG PEDEN, Times Sports Editor
POINT GREY GOLF CLUB—The football fraternity began taking over today in the B.C. Centennial Open golf tournament, the richest in Canada's history.

Dow Finsterwald, son of a former football coach at Ohio, and Mike Souchak, a raw-boned, husky who played football in North Carolina, each posted seven-under-par 65s to grab the early lead in the $42,800 fairway classic.

Each scored a 69 in the opening round Thursday and their 65s today gave them a 36-hole total of 134.

Finsterwald, ranked as one of the game's future glamor boys, toured the first nine in 32 and was in with a 33 despite a double-bogey on the 14th and

THREE STROKES
With more than half the field still on the course, the two held a three-stroke advantage over Ken Venturi of San Francisco, who marked up a 67 today to go with his opening 70.

Vancouver's Stan Leonard

was another stroke off the pace and tied with Gene Littler of California at 138. Leonard had a 68 today after scrambling

Three Victoria pros—Colwood's Bill Court, Laurie Carroll of Oak Bay and Gorge

Vale's Norm Boden—were among the late starters today.

QUEMOY ALERT has been established by Vice-Admiral Wallace M. Beakley, commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet. Fleet stands by as Red China invasion threatens Formosa.

U.S. Boosts Navy Power Off Formosa

WASHINGTON—The U.S. strengthened its naval might off Formosa amid new Red Chinese shelling today as three heavy warships steamed to join the 7th Fleet.

Apparently attempting to deter the Reds from invading offshore Nationalist islands the U.S. sent:

- The heavy cruiser Los Angeles from Long Beach, Calif., today;

- The aircraft carrier Midway from Pearl Harbor Thursday;

- The carrier Essex and four destroyers from the Mediterranean Wednesday.

The 7th Fleet—already totaling 66 ships—is on alert standing. It has been conducting war exercises with Nationalist Premier Chiang Kai-shek's forces.

The Chinese Communists stepped up their artillery attack on the Tan Islands in Amoy Bay today, hurling a blistering 7,120 shells into the 136 Nationalist-held acres in one hour.

The concentration of fire was the heaviest in the nearly four years of skirmishing in the Formosa Strait.

American officials said today a new Peiping threat will weigh heavily in any decision by President Eisenhower on sending U.S. troops.

FLAMES GUT HOUSE

City Woman Fire Victim

Fire victim Mrs. Violet Drinkwater, 33, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital early today, six hours after she was found slumped in the floor between the living room and dining room of the family home, 1127 Bay.

Her husband, Arthur, a bakery employee, said today he had left his wife "about 9.30 or 9.45 p.m. to get some cigarettes. There were only two left."

"I left her sitting in the chair in the corner."

City Fire Chief James Bayliss said it was assumed the fire started where she had been sitting due to the heavy degree of fire damage in the area.

The alarm was turned in by a passer-by, Caesar Finnmore, 3180 Fifth, at 10.51 p.m. The victim was found in the blackened surroundings by city fireman Stan Gow, 3096 Balfour, and taken out on a stretcher shortly after 11.

She died at 5.06 a.m.

Three cross-bred chihuahuas dogs, including a puppy about a week old were rescued by firemen. One full-grown dog was found huddled under the tub in the upstairs bathroom. The puppy was in the living room.

"She must have been trying to rescue him," Mr. Drinkwater said, pointing to where the puppy had been, a few feet from where his wife fell.

Firemen applied the resuscitator to one of the older dogs overcome by smoke. It revived.

Mr. Finnmore, who spotted the fire while driving past said "there was a woman screaming in the middle of the house." He ran into the home of the next-door neighbor, Mrs. Alexander.

'Perfect Hit' In Target Area

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio said tonight two dogs have been landed safely from a space rocket that reached an altitude of 281 miles.

The broadcast said the dogs were aboard a one-stage geophysical year rocket launched in the Soviet Union Aug. 27. The dogs are in good shape the broadcast said.

"Having reached this estimated height the rocket was landed in a precisely allocated sector," the radio said.

The rocket flight was part of experiments in the program for the International Geophysical Year. Apparatus for the study of the upper layers of atmosphere was installed in the rocket.

SPECIAL CABIN

The dogs were enclosed in a special hermetically-sealed cabin.

Total weight of the dogs plus the equipment carried by the rocket was 1,690 kilograms (3,725 pounds).

During the flight, the apparatus, including instruments to study the upper atmosphere, worked normally and ensured the supply of essential scientific data which is now being studied.

The U.S. Air Force announced July 24 that Wickie, a mouse launched in a Thor-Able missile apparently was lost at sea after surviving a 6,000-mile journey through space.

A second mouse, Laska, was alive 32 minutes after being shot on its journey July 9, instruments showed. Experts said this probably meant she survived the journey but died when search for the missile's nose cone failed.

The dogs, named Belyanka (white) and Pestraya (brindle), are both females and weigh about 17½ pounds each, the broadcast said.

'Daisy' Threatens Nova Scotia

HALIFAX (CP)—Weather office here said today hurricane Daisy is expected to veer eastward, bringing gales and heavy rain to Nova Scotia tonight but missing the rest of the Maritimes.

Daisy was reported sweeping north along the New England coast at between 25 and 30 miles an hour. It was expected to turn east-northeast and increase in forward speed later today.

Winds of 50 miles an hour are forecast with gusts to 65. New Brunswick and Prince Edward will escape the storm "unless there's a radical change in its track."

Fruitgrowers fear a heavy loss with the Annapolis Valley's $3,000,000 fruit crop still a week away from maturing. Hurricane Edna swept the valley in September, 1954, dumping a $5,000,000 apple crop on the ground.

Lobster fishermen on the Northumberland Strait, hard hit by bad weather in the last two weeks, have been unable to retrieve lobster traps, which may be swept away.

The navy said all ships are safe in port.

Dag, Jordan Agree UN Force No Use

AMMAN (Reuters)—Dag Hammarskjöld and the Jordanian government today announced they were in agreement that neither a United Nations military force nor a border observation group would be adequate to protect the country's independence.

The announcement was issued jointly by the UN secretary-general and Jordan's leaders following two days of talks here.

Informed sources said earlier Jordan had insisted that British troops remain here until the country's security is assured.

Hammarskjöld had a mandate from the General Assembly to make arrangements for the withdrawal of British and American troops from Jordan and Lebanon. At the same time, he is authorized to seek a system of safeguarding the security of the two nations.

The secretary-general, who conferred with Premier Samir Rifai and King Hussein, will return here for further talks at a date to be determined later.

Farmers Ask Milk Board To Boost Producer Price

The B.C. Federation of Agriculture has asked the provincial milk board to revise the milk price formula in favor of the producer, E. C. Carr, chairman of the board, said today.

"This may or may not mean an increase in the producer price," Mr. Carr told the Times from his Vancouver office.

He denied a report from Vancouver that the federation had asked for a retail price increase of two cents a quart above the present price of 22 cents.

"That is absurd," Mr. Carr said. "The milk board has nothing to do with retail prices; we only fix producer prices."

He admitted that if the producer price were increased "considerably" a retail increase would assuredly follow.

Mr. Carr said the producer price in the province is set by formula and this formula has been under discussion by the B.C. federation and the milk board since last January.

"I cannot say yet whether revision of the formula will mean an increase in the producer price; so many factors are involved, including the wholesale index and the consumer index."

However, B.C. milk producers have stated an increase is necessary because of higher distribution and feed costs and the shortage of hay following a dry summer.

In Victoria, Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy emphasized that the B.C. government has no control over prices. The provincial milk board makes its own price adjustments to the producer and need not refer to the ministry.

"The board has certainly not approached me in this matter," he said.

A spokesman for the B.C. Federation of Agriculture in Victoria said a report from the milk board is expected soon.

SUICIDE BORED HOLE IN HEAD, 7 IN CHEST

STOCKPORT, England (UPI)—Thomas Weston committed suicide by boring holes in his head and body with an electric drill, an inquest decided today.

Weston, a 55-year-old retired butcher, was found dead in his garage with one drill hole in his head and seven in his chest.

Mrs. Hannah Weston said her husband had been receiving treatment for depression.

FRIEND TO ALL High Tribute To Retiring SA Brigadier

Brigadier Harold Martin, a friend to hundreds of Victoria's down-and-outs, retired from the Salvation Army Wednesday night after 35 years' service.

At a farewell ceremony in the Army's Pandora Street headquarters, Magistrate Henry Hall paid tribute to his work as men's social service officer in the city.

"I appreciate his good sense and unselfish service over the years," Mr. Hall said. "And I shall always remember his devotion to duty while attending as an officer in police court."

Mr. Hall said Brigadier Martin was equally respected by Victoria police officers, who valued his judgment and fairness.

Born in Scotland, Brigadier Martin came to Canada after the First World War and entered the Salvation Army College in 1923.

He served a number of years as corps officer in Vernon and Vancouver and was later appointed superintendent of the Winnipeg Delinquent Girls' Home.

Supreme Court Waits 2 Weeks On Little Rock

WASHINGTON (AP)—The highly-charged Little Rock integration issue hung suspended today after a Supreme Court decision to delay a showdown for at least two weeks on the question of mixing Negroes and whites in the Arkansas city's schools.

After hearing more than three hours of arguments in a special session Thursday, the nine justices went behind closed doors and decided to hold another hearing Sept. 11.

At that time, the court will consider the basic question of whether there should be a 2½-year delay in resuming racial mixing of pupils at Little Rock Central High School.

There was some question as to whether Central High will reopen before the new arguments are heard and the court acts.

Ranged on one side of the dispute were Thurgood Marshall, Negro counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and J. Lee Rankin, solicitor-general of the United States.

On the other side was Richard C. Butler, lawyer for the Little Rock school board.

Marshall, opposing any delay in readmitting seven Negro pupils to the school, said the courts must not give ground before that kind of violence.

"You don't close the banks," he told the justices. "You put the robbers in jail."

But Butler said "there would be troops back in Little Rock to maintain law and order unless public school desegregation is delayed."

FIGHTS DELAY
However, Rankin fought the idea of delay, saying the Little Rock school board had not sought either court action or the help of local law enforcement agencies to thwart troublemakers at Central High.

After Butler appealed for "patience and forbearance," Chief Justice Earl Warren said he believes every member of the high court recognizes "the very great problem your school board has."

But, Warren asked, "can we

TROUBLE IS, I'M NOT ASKED, SAYS ARCHITECT

OTTAWA (CP)—Ernest Cormier, the Montreal architect who designed the $16,000,000 government printing bureau, complained today that he has not been consulted on a proposed $700,000 expenditure for improving the air conditioning system.

"That's the big trouble," he said before the Commons public accounts committee investigating construction of the building.

He said that when the building was going up he wanted to install a standby air conditioning machine at a cost of $178,000 but was turned down by the works department under the Liberal administration.

"Now they want to spend $700,000," the 72-year-old architect said with a shrug.

City-Run Bus System Killed By Council Vote

City council Thursday virtually killed chances of a study of practicability of publicly-owned transit in Greater Victoria.

A recorded vote defeated the measure five to two.

The action eliminates an intermunicipal committee proposal that the Sept. 8 Public Utilities Commission hearing on bus fare increases be delayed two months.

Saanich council voted for the study earlier this week, but Oak Bay and Esquimalt representatives indicated their councils would drop the idea as a result of city council's rejection.

TWO DISAPPOINTED

Saanich Coun. Charles Nelles and Esquimalt Coun. G. K. Sammon, who convinced intermunicipal committee that the study should be made, both said they were "disappointed" with Victoria's decision.

The sudden reversal of events will shove intermunicipal committee into the forefront again.

It is expected to act for the Greater Victoria area in a "dress rehearsal" of B.C. Electric's application for a bus fare increase.

Saanich and Esquimalt already have authorized intermunicipal committee to represent them at the meeting. Mayor Percy Scurrell said Thursday he had verbal authorization from each of the individual aldermen to add Victoria to the list. Oak Bay is expected to give authorization too.

ENTHUSIASM DIM

The study proposal was voted down after a dragging debate in council which saw little enthusiasm shown for the investigation even by those in favor.

A show-of-hands vote resulted in a tie, leaving the deciding vote in Mayor Scurrell's hands.

"I'd like to co-operate with the other municipalities but to tell the truth I think it's a waste of money," he said before casting a vote. "I don't think it's going to affect the decision of the PUC and I don't know whether the study will be of any value."

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson broke in to say she had misunderstood the motion when she voted in favor of the study.

A recorded vote followed in which she switched her vote and the mayor added his "nay" to make it five to two against the study.

Later, council approved rejection of a PUC proposal that the city reduce or forgo a 3 per cent cut of passenger revenue paid by BCE under the franchise as compensation for city maintenance of roads used by the buses.

Air-Conditioner Scrap for $255

OTTAWA (CP)—The air-conditioning unit in the Supreme Court of Canada building here has been sold as scrap for $255, it was learned Thursday.

The unit—originally costing about $25,000—has come under the eye of the public accounts committee in its investigation into spending on the $16,000,000 government printing bureau in nearby Hull.

Both buildings were designed by architect Ernest Cormier of Montreal, currently a committee witness under fire from Progressive Conservatives. He testified Wednesday night that the unit has not worked because it was "ruined forever" by disuse during the Second World War.

must have read recent cases of men in high positions who had been guilty of indiscretions. One was Sherman Adams, special assistant to President Eisenhower, who had admitted accepting gifts. But this did not make him a criminal, and he still held his office and the apparent confidence of the president.

Mr. Nicholson said there had been loans to Sommers from Gray to the extent of $7,000 out of Social Credit campaign funds which Gray had been collecting. But this did not make Gray guilty of a criminal act, he said.

The Crown must prove, he said, that Gray and Schultz unlawfully conspired to bribe a minister of the Crown to betray the confidence vested in him. If doubt remained then the jury must acquit the accused.

U.K. Trawler Arrested By Iceland

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters)—An Icelandic gunboat today arrested the British trawler Lord Plender in Beida Bay, north of here.

An Icelandic coast guard spokesman said the British vessel was well within the four-mile limit.

As of Monday, Iceland will extend her fishing limits to 12 miles from four from her coasts. British trawlers, under the protection of a Royal Navy escort, plan to challenge the new limit which Britain refuses to recognize.

Iceland earlier today published orders forbidding even her own trawlers from fishing on main breeding grounds within the new 12-mile limit.

In Paris it was announced that NATO efforts to solve its Iceland dispute had broken down.

Virginia School To Enrol Negroes

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Norfolk school board, complying with an 18-month-old federal court order to end racial segregation, announced today it will enrol 17 Negroes in white schools.

Under Virginia's program of resistance to integration, a school that is integrated is automatically closed.

Governor J. Lindsay Almond Jr., was not immediately available for comment on today's developments.

The board reported its action to federal district Judge Walter E. Hoffman after reconsidering previously-rejected applications of 151 Negroes for admission to white schools.

The 17 children will be enrolled for the school year beginning Sept. 8.

Immediately after the board's announcement, lawyer W. R. C. Coker told Judge Hoffman a motion will be filed asking that the enrolments be delayed until September, 1959.

The board said it took the action contrary to what all its members and the superintendent of schools honestly and sincerely believe is in the best interests of the Negro children, the children in the affected schools — and the public in general.

forces against any Red Chinese invaders in the Formosa Strait.

The state department was so impressed by Peiping's statement that it issued a hands-off warning to the Chinese Communists Thursday.

U.S. PLEDGE

The United States is pledged by treaty to defend the big Nationalist island of Formosa and the nearby Pescadore Islands, about 100 miles across the strait from the China mainland. Congress left it up to Eisenhower to decide whether any Red Chinese attack on Quemoy and Matsu, small islands closer to the mainland, was the start of an attack on Formosa and the Pescadores.

If Eisenhower decided it was, his next step could be to oppose it with the U.S. 7th fleet and other American military power.

This, in part, is what Peiping Radio said, as Red guns pounded Quemoy and Matsu in a continuing record bombardment.

TOUGHEST THREAT

The radio called on Nationalist defenders of Quemoy to surrender, saying "the island is doomed . . . a landing is imminent."

U.S. officials said this is probably the toughest such statement yet made by the Chinese. But Eisenhower Wednesday refused to be drawn out on whether Quemoy and Matsu should be defended by U.S. forces. He said that this was a military decision which could not be made until after the event—that is, any assault on the offshore islands.

The 17 Negroes had been rejected for admission to white schools earlier on the ground that their presence would cause racial tensions.

The school board told Hoffman that after reconsidering the cases of the other 134 applicants it had decided not to enrol them.

Fishpacker Badly Holed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 60-foot fishpacker Allaverdy, owned by J. H. Todd and Son of Victoria was reported badly holed in Seymour Narrows Thursday while en route to Vancouver with 75 tons of salmon.

Temporary repairs were made today in Campbell River and the packer headed for Sabine Channel, between Texada and Lasqueti Islands, to wait for more favorable seas before proceeding to Vancouver.

NEWLY-APPOINTED judge of the juvenile court at Port Alberni is William E. MacLeod, the B.C. Cabinet announced today. He succeeds Thomas Milton Patterson, who has resigned.

BADEN - SOELLINGEN, Germany (CP) — An RCAF Sabre jet fighter crashed while landing at the No. 4 fighter wing base here today. The pilot was killed, and his name was withheld.

APPOINTMENT of Denzil Ashby of Sidney as juvenile court judge at Sidney for the Islands electoral district, to succeed F. J. Baker who will retire on 75th birthday Monday, has been announced by B.C. cabinet. Mr. Ashby, formerly with the RCMP, has served as sergeant-at-arms in the B.C. Legislature during the past two sessions, and was appointed stipendiary magistrate for Sidney in January, 1957.

British Columbia's first pulp and paper mill was built about 1894, in Port Alberni. Due to lack of technical knowledge and inexperience of the operators, the enterprise went bankrupt.

School Cafeteria Burns

NANAIMO (CP) — A four-hour fire of undetermined origin destroyed the cafeteria at Nanaimo Senior High School early today and caused extensive damage to two gymnasiums. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

School principal J. Litch said there appeared to be no necessity to delay opening of the fall term. Prompt action by the fire department in closing fire doors saved classrooms and offices.

The school was built in 1952 at a cost of more than $1,000,000.

City Woman Fire Victim After Flames Gut House

Fire victim Mrs. Violet Drinkwater, 33, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital early today, six hours after she was found slumped on the floor between the living room and dining room of the family home, 1127 Bay.

Her husband, Arthur, a bakery employee, said today he had left his wife "about 9.30 or 9.45 p.m. to get some cigarettes. There were only two left."

"I left her sitting in the chair in the corner," City Fire Chief James Bayliss said it was assumed the fire started where she had been sitting due to the heavy degree of fire damage in the area.

The alarm was turned in by a passer-by, Caesar Finnemore, 3180 Fifth, at 10.51 p.m. The victim was found in the blackened surroundings by city fireman Stan Gow, 3096 Balfour.

Mr. Finnemore, who spotted the fire while driving past said "there was a woman screaming in the middle of the house." He ran into the home of the next-door neighbor, Mrs. Alexander Grant, 1123 Bay, and telephoned the fire department.

Mrs. Grant said: "I heard her yelling. It was like 'oh, no, oh, no' and then moans."

They both went to the scene and "the glass (in the front room window) broke" just as they got there.

Mr. Finnemore tried to get into the back door but smoke drove him back.

To his calls of "Where are you?" he heard only cries for "help" about a dozen times.

He tried to turn the garden hose on the blaze but the tap was in the middle of the basement. He started to break the window when the fire department arrived.

The house had recently been purchased by Mr. Drinkwater. The fire marshal's department in Vancouver will investigate the tragedy.

Mrs. Drinkwater, born in Armstrong, B.C., had lived in Victoria since 1952.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

U.S. Boosts Navy Power Off Formosa

WASHINGTON—The U.S. strengthened its naval might off Formosa amid new Red Chinese shelling today as three heavy warships steamed to join the 7th Fleet.

Apparently attempting to deter the Reds from invading off-shore Nationalist islands the U.S. sent:

- The heavy cruiser Los Angeles from Long Beach, Calif. today;
- The aircraft carrier Midway from Pearl Harbor Thursday;
- The carrier Essex and four destroyers from the Mediterranean Wednesday.

The 7th Fleet—already totaling 66 ships—is on alert standing. It has been conducting war exercises with Nationalist Premier Chiang Kai-shek's forces.

HEAVIEST SHELLING The Chinese Communists stepped up their artillery attack on the Tan Islands in Amoy Bay today, hurling a blistering 7,120 shells into the 136 Nationalist-held acres in one hour.

The concentration of fire was the heaviest in the nearly four years of skirmishing in the Formosa Strait.

American officials said today a new Peiping threat will weigh heavily in any decision by President Eisenhower on sending U.S. forces against any Red Chinese invaders in the Formosa Strait.

The state department was so impressed by Peiping's statement that it issued a hands-off warning to the Chinese Communists Thursday.

U.S. PLEDGE The United States is pledged by treaty to defend the big Nationalist island of Formosa and the nearby Pescadore Islands, about 100 miles across the strait from the China mainland.

Congress left it up to Eisenhower to decide whether any Red Chinese attack on Quemoy and Matsu, small islands closer to the mainland, was the start of an attack on Formosa and the Pescadores.

If Eisenhower decided it was, his next step could be to oppose it with the U.S. 7th fleet and other American military power.

This, in part, is what Peiping Radio said, as Red guns pounded Quemoy and Matsu in a continuing record bombardment.

"The Chinese People's Liberation Army is determined to liberate the fatherland's territory of Taiwan (Formosa) and the coastal islands."

TOUGHEST THREAT The radio called on Nationalist defenders of Quemoy to surrender, saying "the island is doomed... a landing is imminent."

U.S. officials said this is probably the toughest such statement yet made by the Chinese.

But Eisenhower Wednesday refused to be drawn out on whether Quemoy and Matsu should be defended by U.S. forces. He said that this was a military decision which could not be made until after the event—that is, any assault on the offshore islands.

The board reported its action to federal district Judge Walter E. Hoffman after reconsidering previously rejected applications of 151 Negroes for admission to white schools.

The 17 children will be enrolled for the school year beginning Sept. 8.

Immediately after the board's announcement, lawyer W. R. C. Cocke told Judge Hoffman a

AMMAN (Reuters)—Dag Hammarskjöld and the Jordanian government today announced they were in agreement that neither a United Nations military force nor a border observation group would be adequate to protect the country's independence.

The announcement was issued jointly by the UN secretary-general and Jordan's leaders following two days of talks here.

Informed sources said earlier Jordan had insisted that British troops remain here until the country's security is assured.

QUEMOY ALERT has been established by Vice-Admiral Wallace M. Beakley, commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet. Fleet stands by as Red China invasion threatens Formosa.

'On Your Own' Says U.K. Paper

LONDON (Reuters)—The Manchester Guardian says the United States would be "on its own" if it backed the off-shore islands in the Formosa Strait.

The Guardian says a temporary humiliation for the United States would be preferable to a major war.

The U.S. has no irrevocable commitment to the defence of Quemoy and Matsu although it is committed to the defence of Formosa, The Guardian adds.

"True, Quemoy might never have become such a bastion for Formosa—physical and psychological—if President Eisenhower had been unambiguous in 1955."

"Because of his deliberate vagueness then and ever since then, the Nationalists have been able to reinforce Quemoy and the United States cannot now disregard what happens there."

Private MLAs in the B.C. legislature will not be invited to travel on the inaugural train marking extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Dawson Creek in the Peace River district on Sept. 30, Premier Bennett said today.

"This is strictly a railroad proposition," he said when asked if CCF leader Robert Strachan and members of the House outside the cabinet would be included in the list of invited guests.

"No private MLAs will be invited," he replied. "Only the cabinet and those immediately connected with the railway."

The premier said the presidents of North American Railroads including the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific are expected to be aboard the train.

Session Extended LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (CP) (CP)—Governor Orval Faubus signed a resolution today extending the special session of the Arkansas legislature until Jan. 10 when the next regular sitting begins.

This move keeps the state's lawmakers on call for a meeting at any time until January.

Under Virginia's program of resistance to integration, a school that is integrated is automatically closed.

Governor J. Lindsay Almond Jr. was not immediately available for comment on today's developments.

The board reported its action to federal district Judge Walter E. Hoffman after reconsidering previously rejected applications of 151 Negroes for admission to white schools.

The 17 children will be enrolled for the school year beginning Sept. 8.

Immediately after the board's announcement, lawyer W. R. C. Cocke told Judge Hoffman a motion will be filed asking that the enrolments be delayed until September, 1959.

The board said it took the action contrary to what all its members and the superintendent of schools honestly and sincerely believe is in the best interests of the Negro children, the children in the affected schools and the public in general.

The 17 Negroes had been rejected for admission to white schools earlier on the ground that their presence would cause racial tensions.

The school board told Hoffman that after reconsidering the cases of the other 134 applicants it had decided not to enrol them.

'Perfect Hit' In Target Area

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio said tonight two dogs have been landed safely from a space rocket that reached an altitude of 281 miles.

The broadcast said the dogs were aboard a one-stage geophysical year rocket launched in the Soviet Union Aug. 27. The dogs are in good shape the broadcast said.

"Having reached this estimated height the rocket was landed in a precisely allocated sector," the radio said.

The rocket flight was part of experiments in the program for the International Geophysical Year. Apparatus for the study of the upper layers of atmosphere was installed in the rocket.

SPECIAL CABIN The dogs were enclosed in a special hermetically-sealed cabin.

Total weight of the dogs plus the equipment carried by the rocket was 1,690 kilograms (3,725 pounds).

During the flight, the apparatus, including instruments to study the upper atmosphere, worked normally and ensured the supply of essential scientific data which is now being studied.

The U.S. Air Force announced July 24 that Wickie, a mouse launched in a Thor-Able missile, apparently was lost at sea after surviving a 6,000-mile journey through space.

A second mouse, Laska, was alive 32 minutes after being shot on its journey July 9, instruments showed. Experts said this probably meant she survived the journey but died when search for the missile's nose cone failed.

The dogs, named Belyanka (white) and Pestraya (brindle), are both females and weigh about 17½ pounds each, the broadcast said.

HALIFAX (CP)—Weather office here said today hurricane Daisy is expected to veer eastward, bringing gales and heavy rain to Nova Scotia tonight but missing the rest of the Maritimes.

Daisy was reported sweeping north along the New England coast at between 25 and 30 miles an hour. It was expected to turn east-northeast and increase in forward speed later today.

Winds of 50 miles an hour are forecast with gusts to 65. New Brunswick and Prince Edward will escape the storm "unless there's a radical change in its track."

Fruitgrowers fear a heavy loss with the Annapolis Valley's $3,000,000 fruit crop still a week away from maturing. Hurricane Edna swept the valley in September, 1954, dumping a $5,000,000 apple crop on the ground.

Lobster fishermen on the Northumberland Strait, hard hit by bad weather in the last two weeks, have been unable to retrieve lobster traps, which may be swept away.

The navy said all ships are safe in port.

He had taken the documents to use as ammunition in an attempt to blackmail Gray and his firm for $10,000 or a life partnership. Gray should be commended that he had resisted this attempt. The lawyer said Eversfield had done well financially out of the case. He had received $700 from Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy and as a Crown witness had been paid $60 a day for months. He was now a free man in Los Angeles with this money in his pocket.

Mr. Nicholson also criticized the Crown for "the long delay" in laying of the charges and said it had resulted in prejudice to the defence.

NOT CRIMINAL Thursday, the lawyer said that Gray may have acted "imprudently and unwisely" but was not a criminal nor guilty of criminal acts.

Mr. Nicholson said the Crown mainly rested its case on the evidence of Eversfield, the former Pacific Coast Services Ltd. bookkeeper who took numerous documents from the firm's files before he left in March, 1955.

Eversfield's "scheme" was one of the key issues, the lawyer said, and in the eyes of the defence he was nothing less than "a schemer, a blackmailer and a liar."

Dow Fires 65 to Lead Golf Open

By DOUG PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

POINT GREY GOLF CLUB VANCOUVER — Dow Finsterwald, a young Ohioan regarded as one of the most promising young pros on golf's gold trail, fired a seven-under-par 65 to take the lead among early finishers in the $32,800 B.C. Centennial Open today.

The 29-year-old shoemaker blew hot-and-cold on the par-72 layout and was one of the first to finish his second round.

He fired 10 birdies, one double bogey on the par-four 14th, and a bogey to finish with a 36-hole total of 134.

Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., who started the round one stroke off the pace with an opening-day's score of 69, duplicated that effort today for a 138-total.

Most of the two dozen players who finished before Finsterwald posted scores in the 70s and were several strokes off the pace.

The four co-leaders Monday with 68s were Toronto's Al Balding and Gerry Magee, Koichi Ono of Japan and Texan Fred Hawkins—were still out on the course at press time.

The all-night rain has softened the drought-hard layout and the talented pros are able to make their approach shots hold on the tricky greens, a source of trouble in the opening round.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The foot fishpacker Allaverdy, owned by J. E. Fodd and Son of Victoria was reported badly holed in Seymour Narrows Thursday while en route to Vancouver with 75 tons of salmon.

Dag, Jordan Agree UN Force No Use

AMMAN (Reuters)—Dag Hammarskjöld and the Jordanian government today announced they were in agreement that neither a United Nations military force nor a border observation group would be adequate to protect the country's independence.

The announcement was issued jointly by the UN secretary-general and Jordan's leaders following two days of talks here.

Informed sources said earlier Jordan had insisted that British troops remain here until the country's security is assured.

Hammarskjöld had a mandate from the General Assembly to make arrangements for the withdrawal of British and American troops from Jordan and Lebanon. At the same time, he is authorized to seek a system of safeguarding the security of the two nations.

SUICIDE BORED HOLE IN HEAD, 7 IN CHEST

STOCKPORT, England (UPI)—Thomas Weston committed suicide by boring holes in his head and body with an electric drill, an inquest decided today.

Weston, a 55-year-old retired butcher, was found dead in his garage with one drill hole in his head and seven in his chest.

Mrs. Hannah Weston said her husband had been receiving treatment for depression.

FRIEND TO ALL

High Tribute To Retiring SA Brigadier

Brigadier Harold Martin, a friend to hundreds of Victoria's down-and-outs, retired from the Salvation Army Wednesday night after 35 years' service.

At a farewell ceremony in the Army's Pandora Street headquarters, Magistrate Henry Hall paid tribute to his work as men's social service officer in the city.

"I appreciate his good sense and unselfish service over the years," Mr. Hall said. "And I shall always remember his devotion to duty while attending as an officer in police court."

Mr. Hall said Brigadier Martin was equally respected by Victoria police officers, who valued his judgment and fairness.

Born in Scotland, Brigadier Martin came to Canada after the First World War and entered the Salvation Army College in 1923.

He served a number of years as corps officer in Vernon and Vancouver and was later appointed superintendent of the Winnipeg Delinquent Girls' Home.

HOODLUMS' CRONY was how Senate rackets investigators described Harold Gibbons—right hand man of Teamsters' Union president James Hoffa—during hearings at Washington.

TROUBLE IS, I'M NOT ASKED, SAYS ARCHITECT

OTTAWA (CP) — Ernest Cormier, the Montreal architect who designed the $16,000,000 government printing bureau, complained today that he has not been consulted on a proposed $700,000 expenditure for improving the air conditioning system.

"That's the big trouble," he said before the Commons public accounts committee investigating construction of the building.

He said that when the building was going up he wanted to install a standby air conditioning machine at a cost of $175,000 but was turned down by the works department under the Liberal administration.

"Now they want to spend $700,000," the 72-year-old architect said with a shrug.

Supreme Court Waits 2 Weeks On Little Rock

WASHINGTON (AP) — The highly-charged Little Rock integration issue hung suspended today after a Supreme Court decision to delay a showdown for at least two weeks on the question of mixing Negroes and whites in the Arkansas city's schools.

After hearing more than three hours of arguments in a special session Thursday, the nine justices went behind closed doors and decided to hold another hearing Sept. 11.

At that time, the court will consider the basic question of whether there should be a 24-hour delay in resuming racial mixing of pupils at Little Rock Central High School.

There was some question as to whether Central High will reopen before the new arguments are heard and the court acts.

Ranged on one side of the dispute were Thurgood Marshall, Negro counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and J. Lee Rankin, solicitor general of the United States.

On the other side was Richard C. Butler, lawyer for the Little Rock school board.

Marshall, opposing any delay in readmitting seven Negro pupils to the school, said the courts must not give ground before that kind of violence.

"You don't close the banks," he told the justices. "You put the robbers in jail."

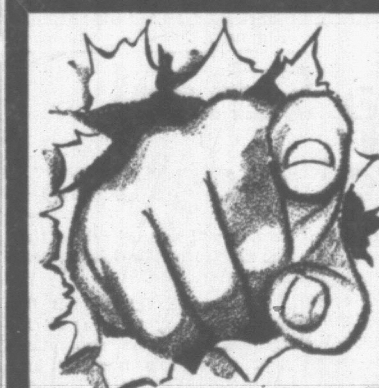

But Butler said "there would be troops back in Little Rock to maintain law and order unless public school desegregation is delayed."

FIGHTS DELAY

However, Rankin fought the idea of delay, saying the Little Rock school board had not sought either court action or the help of local law enforcement agencies to thwart troublemakers at Central High.

After Butler appealed for "patience and forbearance," Chief Justice Earl Warren said he believes every member of the high court recognizes "the very great problem your school board has."

But, Warren asked, "can we

City-Run Bus System Killed By Council Vote

City council Thursday virtually killed chances of a study of practicability of publicly-owned transit in Greater Victoria.

A recorded vote defeated the measure five to two.

The action eliminates an intermunicipal committee proposal that the Sept. 8 Public Utilities Commission, hearing on bus fare increases be delayed two months.

Saanich council voted for the study earlier this week, but Oak Bay and Esquimalt representatives indicated their councils would drop the idea as a result of city council's rejection.

TWO DISAPPOINTED

Saanich Coun. Charles Neiles and Esquimalt Coun. G. K. Sammon, who convinced intermunicipal committee that the study should be made, both said they were "disappointed" with Victoria's decision.

The sudden reversal of events will shove intermunicipal committee into the forefront again.

It is expected to act for the Greater Victoria area in a "dress rehearsal" of B.C. Electric's application for a bus fare increase.

Saanich and Esquimalt already have authorized intermunicipal committee to represent them at the meeting. Mayor Percy Scourrah said Thursday he had verbal authorization from each of the individual aldermen to add Victoria to the list. Oak Bay is expected to give authorization too.

ENTHUSIASM DIM

The study proposal was voted down after a dragging debate in council which saw little enthusiasm shown for the investigation even by those in favor.

A show-of-hands vote resulted in a tie, leaving the deciding vote in Mayor Scourrah's hands.

"I'd like to co-operate with 'e other municipalities but to tell the truth I think it's a waste of money," he said before casting a vote. "I don't think it's going to affect the decision of the PUC and I don't know whether the study will be of any value."

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson broke in to say she had misunderstood the motion when she voted in favor of the study.

A recorded vote followed in which she switched her vote and the mayor added his "nay" to make it five to two-against the study.

Later, council approved rejection.

Mr. Nicholson said there had been loans to Sommers from Gray to the extent of some $7,000 out of Social Credit campaign funds which Gray had been collecting. But this did not make Gray guilty of a criminal act, he said.

The Crown must prove, he said, that Gray and Schultz unlawfully conspired to bribe a minister of the Crown to betray the confidence vested in him. If doubt remained then the jury must acquit the accused.

MONTE ROBERTS

My faith in women—if it ever wavered—is now completely restored, and, indeed, strengthened to the ultimate. This is because of a volume which must be counted the book of the century.

It is called the Centennial Cook Book, and is the work of the British Columbia Women's Institutes.

Now, I am not such a one who usually whiles away the idle hours perusing cook books.

But I am here to tell you there is more good solid reading, more sheer ecstatic enjoyment, in the Centennial Cook Book than in a year's subscription to any five leading magazines.

Right from the very beginning, this product of the good women of the Women's Institutes of B.C. strikes a sound, practical, honest note.

It states in the forward: "In the days of the caveman man was satisfied to eat his meat raw, and women knew their lot was to be dragged around by the hair of their heads. When cooked food became acceptable, women were given the job of cooking and they have been at it ever since."

You see what the Women's Institutes are getting at? Mind your cooking, or else you'll be dragged around by the hair of your head.

Well, the Women's Institutes are doing their best to see this doesn't happen to any woman who comes in contact with the Centennial Cook Book.

Just reading the Cook Book is enough to send a man drooping out of his mind. Any woman who can cook according to this Cook Book will not only get her man, her man will bring home all his friends, too.

Because this is a Cook Book which deals strictly with FOOD.

There isn't a rolled asparagus sandwich, with or without mayonnaise, in all 298 pages. Nor is their evidence of any of the other more malignant forms of Foo (as distinct from Food) which infest this modern day.

Just for example, the Cariboo Women's Institute has 10 pages of the Cook Book in which to set forth its favorite recipes.

And what do all those recipes deal with?

Meat, that's what they deal with. Beef and pork and venison and bear, spare ribs and sausage, on each and every one of those 10 delectable pages.

And right here and now, let me point out another virtue of the Cook Book: "There is no nonsense of setting ovens at 324 degrees for 15 minutes, reducing to 300 for 17 seconds, and so on.

No, sir. In this Cook Book, you put things in the oven, or on the stove, and you cook UNTIL DONE.

As just one example, let me quote the recipe for roast venison: "Cover a roast of venison with a paste made of flour and water. This paste should be one inch thick. Cover the paste with a sheet of butter paper. About half-hour before the roast is done remove the paste, baste well and brown off."

I could go on and on. But please, get your own copy of the Centennial Cook Book.

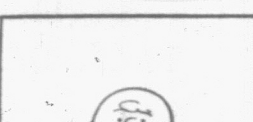

You'll treasure it always.

Heavy Rain Gives Relief In Forests

Victoria welcomed more than a third of an inch of rain overnight as long-awaited precipitation brought good news to most of B.C.

The rainfall was general, on Vancouver Island, mainland coastal areas, and from the far north to the Okanagan Valley.

The hope was for more of the same, to ease the desperate forest fire situation and slake the thirst of arid farm lands.

Forecast for the Victoria area indicated further periods of rain Saturday evening, preceded by a mixture of cloud and sun today and Saturday.

Heaviest overnight rainfall on Vancouver Island was a little more than an inch in the Kyquot area. Port Hardy registered .85 inches by 4 a.m., Comox 41 inches.

Unsettled weather is forecast for Sunday and Monday. Temperatures will be cool, with a low of 50 and a high of 62 to 65 at the Gonzales Heights weather office.

B.C. Forest Service is hopeful that the weekend weather will be sufficiently wet to permit "serious consideration early next week to the lifting of the general forest closure," a service spokesman said.

Grouse season was to open Saturday, but hunters, like all others, will be barred from the woods until the closure is lifted.

Dock Strike Negotiators Report No Progress Made

Dock strike negotiations remained stalemated today as a federal mediator continued plans for a joint meeting of union and management in Vancouver.

No progress was made Thursday by George Currie, federal government labor officer, in getting employers and union representatives together.

He continued separate talks today and there is a possibility that a joint session may be held during the weekend.

The strike of 1,300 longshoremen started in five British Columbia ports Aug. 21 in a contract dispute. It now has spread to Prince Rupert.

William Henderson, chairman of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union policy committee, says the Prince Rupert walkout is not a sympathy strike.

"They operate under the Vancouver local's agreement," he said, "and were actually out in the first place."

'NEW LOOK' IN DISTRICT SCHOOLS

Students Like New Ruling on Dress

By JOHN MIKA
School opening Wednesday will bring a sweeping change in styles of dress for Greater Victoria students this year. Many parents will breathe a sigh of relief as they send their children back to the high schools dressed in a sensible fashion by order of the school board.

To demonstrate the old and the new modes, Dave Cutler, 3631 Cedar Hill, and Sylvia Byers, 1679 Cedar, modeled the before and after fashions resulting from a new code of dress requirements issued by the board.

First donning sensible clothes and making sure they were neat, the 13-year-old Grade 8 students at Lansdowne Junior High also demonstrated the type of wear that will be banished as a memory.

The board's code will be sent to parents of 7,000 pupils in Grades 7 to 12 on opening day.

For girls, it rules out exaggerated hair styles, heavy make-up, elaborate jewelry, tight-fitting skirts and sweaters and impractical footwear.

For boys, gone are the days of fancy haircuts and sideburns, tight-fitting, over-draped or low-waist trousers, gaudy shirts hanging outside of the trousers, more than the top shirt button undone, and "Wellington" or other metal-shod boots and shoes.

Boys also will be forbidden to wear in classrooms leather or other jackets with metal flashings, or running shoes.

The code, believed first issued by a B.C. school board under new authority in the Public Schools Act, was requested by PTA groups.

And how do the students feel about it?

"We think it's a good thing," said Dave and Sylvia.

So did most of the high school students who filled out questionnaires during the last term.

Here are the two models:

Double Bail Set In Cheque Case

Evidence Indicates $500,000 Involved

Evidence of a cheque forgery ring that could reach to half-million-dollar proportions was presented at a preliminary hearing in Saanich police court Thursday.

Bail for income tax refund cheque forgery suspect William Black, 32, of Vancouver, was doubled to $5,000 by Magistrate H.C. Hall at conclusion of the hearing's first sitting.

Detectives from Saanich, Victoria, Vancouver and the RCMP unearthed the massive bulk of evidence during an investigation into a whirlwind cheque-cashing binge at 18 Greater Victoria banks which realized $4,736.70 in a 3½-hour period July 24.

Twenty-two of 47 crown witnesses were called to the stand in Thursday's 2½-hour initial sitting of the preliminary hearing.

The remaining 25 witnesses will be called next Thursday in an effort to complete the case for the prosecution.

Magistrate Hall accepted a staggering 59 exhibits, mostly documents—several of these bundles containing hundreds of cheque blanks—which were brought into the courtroom in three large cardboard cartons.

He appointed Saanich deputy chief of police John Hamilton as custodian of the exhibits until next Thursday's sitting.

City prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie told the hearing the volume of cheques unearthed had a prospective value of $500,000.

Specifically, Black is charged with attempting to deal with a forged document made out in the name of Richard Marshall, 2502 Brighton, in the amount of $263.15.

It purported to be a Government of Canada income tax refund cheque, dated July 3, 1958.

All of 18 cheques cashed at Greater Victoria banks were identical to it, crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie said.

A man—not the accused—tried to cash this cheque at the Saanich branch of the Bank of Montreal, 3450 Quadra, bank manager Melvin George Genge told the hearing.

When the man found he did not have any in his wallet he said he would get some identification from his car, turned and walked outside, Mr. Genge said.

The manager signalled to an assistant to follow, which he did, and the would-be cheque passer ran from the bank to a parked car with another man at the wheel, the hearing was told. The assistant took the car's licence number, he said.

Mr. Genge gave chase in his own car when the other auto sped away. The banker said he drove at speeds up to 90 miles an hour along Cloverdale toward Douglas Street but did not catch up to the fleeing car.

Among them were 1,855 cheques, 499 of them with a value of $132,177.05. The remainder included a mixture of completed and partly-completed printed blank cheques, some bearing names and amounts.

There were bundles of B.C. and Alberta drivers' licences, credit cards and B.C. Automobile Association membership cards. Some bore names and Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver addresses.

Det.-Sgt. Joseph Armstrong, of Saanich police, said an investigation was commenced here and continued in Vancouver.

He identified 41 exhibits which he said he obtained from the RCMP and Vancouver detectives.

Among the pile of exhibits were portions of Edmonton and Victoria telephone directories, he said.

Two parts of the latter listed banks as shown in the directory's yellow pages, and there were marks after 18 bank locations, the officer pointed out.

Much of the documentary evidence was found wrapped in a blanket in the Fraser River, when co-operation of the mainland RCMP was called in. More was found in Vancouver in a suite occupied by Black. It included printing and punching apparatus and a revolver. Black admitted ownership of the latter.

Most of the witnesses were tellers and bank employees who cashed or approved the cheques offered for payment July 24.

Some described the cheque passer as a man between 25 and 30 years old, clean-cut, wearing smart clothing, including a tweed jacket. He was about six feet tall and wore his dark hair in a crew cut.

In requesting an increase in Black's bail, which stood at $2,500 cash, Mr. McKenzie pointed out the value of cheques cashed in Victoria alone totalled $5,000 and he submitted $2,500 was totally inadequate.

Defence counsel James Proudfoot said since his client appeared at the hearing Thursday he had no reason to think he would not reappear next week and $2,500 bail was adequate, he felt.

Magistrate Hall said he felt the amount should be increased to at least $5,000. Whether this would be cash or sureties could be decided when the new application for bail was made, he said.

The extra grant was revealed in a cabinet order which stated that the additional $80,000 will be taken from consolidated revenue.

The original $50,000 was approved at the last session of the legislature under special expenditures for the provincial secretary's department.

The cabinet order reads: "It is estimated that an additional sum of $80,000 is required to take care of actual expenditure incurred in connection with various Centennial Year events carried out by the government."

Vandals Drag Bull to Death On Millstream

A young Holstein bull stolen from a Millstream Road farm early today and apparently tied behind a truck, died when it fell and was dragged along the road.

Mrs. Ivor Maberley, Millstream Road, said the animal was securely tethered a half-mile from the farmhouse.

"The tether was removed, and we think it was led away behind a truck, and probably died when it fell and was dragged."

It was found about 200 yards from the farm, by the side of the road.

The animal was found by a passing motorist, Mrs. Maberley said. Another motorist on the scene, she added, said he had "run into it."

"People can come out into this unorganized territory and get away with things like this," Mrs. Maberley said.

"They are just after free beef."

"This sort of thing has happened before. It is criminal. It's not the price of the bull so much—but what a way to treat an animal!"

Police are investigating.

Fishing Boat Safe After Big Air Hunt

An all-night search by a U.S. Coast Guard plane in the Neah Bay area, joined today by an RCAF Canoe, two Coast Guard cutters, and a general alert to all vessels in the vicinity, ended at noon today—with success.

A vessel which had radioed at 10.15 p.m. Thursday that she was sinking turned up safely—moored alongside the jetty at the U.S. Coast Guard station, Neah Bay.

Gertrude, a fishing vessel, sent out a Mayday (SOS message) picked up by another fisherman, Willie K., which could not read the identity of location of Gertrude. Message was relayed to Coast Guard and the RCAF Search and Rescue Centre, Vancouver.

The search was in full swing when a terse radio message from the Coast Guard said the vessel was safely in harbor, towed there during the night by another fishboat.

There was no explanation.

City Woman Hurt In Street Mishap

Mrs. Olive Maggs, 51, 1910 Denman, was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital today suffering a broken right hip sustained when she was in collision with a car about 9 a.m. while crossing the Government-Bay intersection.

Driver of the car was George W. Burkner, 423 Luxton.

Mrs. Maggs was crossing Government from east to west on the south side of Bay when the accident occurred.

Civil Servants' Salaries Quoted

The average monthly wage paid to B.C. civil servants in July this year was $305 against $277 in July last year, Premier Bennett said today.

The premier said he had just obtained these figures from the civil service commission. He made no comment.

SCHOOL CRACKDOWN POLICY NOT NEW

A spokesman for the B.C. Education Department emphasized today that under the B.C. Education Act, as amended at the last session, students of 15 or over who do not apply themselves to their studies or do not comply with rules and regulations may be expelled.

"This amendment was to strengthen the hands of school boards and school principals,"

the spokesman said. "No further orders-in-council have been issued."

He was commenting on a report that there had been a recent change in school board regulations.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Allan Readman, 1141 Talmie, was fined $20 in Saanich police court Thursday when he pleaded guilty to throwing a bottle on a highway.

Police said the bottle landed in front of a motorcyclist, spraying him with fragments. Readman's counsel said the bottle landed in a ditch.

City public works committee next week will study tenders for new piling and a concrete deck at the garbage wharf. The new structure will support an enclosed building to be built for transferring garbage to trucks under the city's plan to switch from dumping garbage at sea to using it for landfill.

The junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot on Saturday at 1.30 p.m. for a work "bee" on its tree plot at Beaver Lake.

Burning rubbish without permits cost three Saanich residents $15 each in police court Thursday.

Arthur Onwin, 2246 McCoy; M. V. Matthews, 940 Dunn, and Jessie Tucker, 338 Walter, each pleaded guilty to the charges.

Henry Arthur Connor, 1160 North Park, was fined $250 in Saanich police court today for impaired driving.

He was involved in a collision Thursday night on Douglas Street north of Saanich Road.

Joseph Hammond, 2709 Doncaster, was fined $250 today in city police court on an impaired driving charge.

Evidence was he crossed fire hose lines on Cook Street Thursday at 11.25 p.m. and failed to stop when told to do so.

He entered a guilty plea.

Two minors charged with being in possession of liquor were fined $15 each in city police court today while another youth under 21 was fined $50 for consuming liquor in a public place.

Charged with possession were Orning Isdahl, 2618 Roseberry and E. J. Stefanek, 1127 Catherine. W. H. Petty, aged 20, HMCS Naden, was fined for consuming beer in the King's beer parlor after telling the waiter he was aged 21.

Robert McNab, Nelles Road, was fined $25 and $50 costs in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday on a charge of disorderly conduct.

A new agreement giving the Corps of Commissioners a $1,647 monthly retainer for operating meter patrols throughout the week, including Wednesday afternoons, was given first reading Thursday by city council.

Banks will be closed Saturday despite the Labor Day holiday Monday.

Federal government regulations allow Saturday morning openings only on those occasions when they otherwise would be closed four consecutive days, such as Easter.

Banks will be open from 4.30 to 6 p.m. today in addition to regular hours, a normal Friday practice. They will reopen Tuesday at 10 a.m.

New Large-Scale B.C. Map Ready for Distribution

A new edition of the large-scale wall map of British Columbia has been compiled and produced by the geographic division, department of lands and forests, and is ready for distribution.

The map is in two sections, on the same scale, and each is the same size, 54 inches by 72 inches.

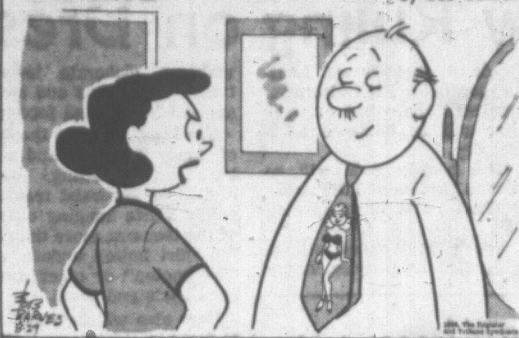

The former edition was reproduced in 1933 and reprinted without revision in 1945.

Since that time, the province has been completely mapped by aerial photography.

The map is obtainable from the lands and forests department at $3 for the two sections.

Appetites To Be Hearty This Holiday Weekend!

By PENNY SAVER

All sorts of special food treats are planned by the local shops for this coming Labor Day weekend! In fact, some of them are so good and yet so inexpensive even the tightest of budgets won't feel the slightest pull!

Appetites will be hearty too, so plan well in advance . . . and enjoy a relaxed holiday.

Lamb stew is a good basic dish. If you're planning to go on a trip, prepare and cook a large pot of lamb meat and vegetables at home, cap it tightly and warm over the campfire or cottage stove. Lamb stew meat is priced at 29 cents a pound.

Parsnips are on the produce stands . . . and this vegetable adds a tasty touch to stew! Fat, nutritious parsnips are two bunches for 29 cents.

Brussel sprouts have just arrived from California. A pound of sprouts is 25 cents.

Spinach is very popular at present . . . probably for its reasonable price and high vitamin content! Can you believe it? It's now two pounds for 39 cents.

Something different, too, are juicy Mexican papayas. This large pear-like fruit is selling at 49 cents a piece. It makes lovely dessert eating!

Summer salads are still the top of the ladder as far as eating goes! Local lettuce is 15 cents; radishes at two bunches, 15 cents; onions, 10 cents a bunch.

It won't be a perfect meal if there's no blackberry pie! And all you blackberry lovers won't want to miss this buy on scrumptious crusty pies made with fresh Vancouver Island berries! The berries are cooked right in the pie. They are 50 cents each.

Marketing for the long weekend? Then don't forget to call me at 2-3131, I'll tell you where I shopped!

BIRTHDAY GIFT FOR DAUGHTER'S FIANCE

My daughter's fiance is having a birthday next month. Would it be proper for me to give him a gift and, if so, what would be suitable? The couple became engaged a week ago and will be married in October.

Answers:
You might as well consider the young man as Louise Davis almost a member of your family, as he will soon be your son-in-law. A gift or some kind of remembrance would be fitting and appropriate. Think of the pleasure and assurance you would give him, not necessarily because of the gift, but because of your sincere desire to give. It's another way of saying "Welcome". Should you ignore the birthday, he might think that you don't approve of the engagement or marriage. I suggest that you give him something personal. Perhaps he might like monogrammed handkerchiefs, a book, cuff links, tie clip. Your daughter should be able to help you with ideas. I am sure she will want you there before the others arrive, as you are to be the guest of honor.

Twisted Wire Is Artistic Medium For Unorthodox Scottish Artist

NEW YORK (NTA) — Valerie Clarebout looks like an artist, lives like an artist and talks like an artist. It would be a shock to find that she wasn't.

Therefore, why shock people? She is an artist, but of a few ilk — a three-dimensional wire artist which means she twists and pulls and shoves 3,000 pounds of aluminum a year, plus a few hundred more of brass and copper wire, into delicate figures.

After a hard day's work, she has a consolation. She is never alone in her Greenwich Village studio for on the walls of the barnlike workshop are deer with muscles bunched for flight. And also hanging rakishly are angels. The latter would recall to the millions who saw them her winged angels which graced Rockefeller Plaza promenade for Christmas of 1954.

Her blue eyes twinkle as she admits that life in these United States is much better now than when she came from England six years ago. She had $15 in her pocket and samples tucked under her arms.

TALK OF THE TOWN

She enjoys telling stories about herself and does a good job of it. She related how she became the talk of Buffalo once because she arrived in the train station at 4 a.m. and proceeded to curl up and sleep on the floor.

"I may be untidy in my life," she chuckled as she looked around colorful living quarters behind the studio, "but I am always punctual and methodical in my work."

From this she went on to score artists who used tempera as an excuse for not delivering a commission on time.

"An artist's temperament should go into the work and not into the delivery of the work. Guess it is just my Scottish nature that leads to my punctuality."

Miss Clarebout began sculpturing in other materials before she sifted to wire. The transition came while she was on another job.

"Oh, what a beautiful piece of wire. May I take it home?" was the clarion call to her present bread-and-butter work. But even as a school girl she used her artistic talents ingeniously. She made a deal with fellow students in history to do her homework in history and geography in return for a monogram or drawing. And she is still swapping. The latest — her work for a crazy quilt.

She denies that metal work seems cold to a viewer and admits to a tongue-in-cheek humor which can be seen in the twists and turns of her wires.

Many projects that help pay the rent are definitely commercial and dull, she admitted, and then told how she overcame this.

"I approach such a job by creating a new process with which to work which takes all dullness out of it."

LIVES ABOVE CLUB

Always busy, she says her day is 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., but often begins earlier because she lives above a Greenwich Village night club.

"And once they wake you up, you might as well go to work."

Among four projects going, she is doing her first mural — of wire and tiles — for a public building. It is for a junior high school in Rockaway, Queens.

Unlike many artists, she has never seen the finished work she has done for department stores, restaurants and public buildings throughout the United States.

Although her jobs keep her hopping, she does have a hobby besides mothering two dachshunds . . . learning to drive.

Presently, getting a license seems in the dim future. "I've failed two tests so far," she said.

But being behind in her luck doesn't seem to faze this Bea Lillie with a Scottish burr.

She can always think back to the $1,000 advance cheque for her Christmas angels in Rockefeller Plaza. The day she received it, she was broke and living on cheese, macaroni and tea. But she continued on this diet another two days. No one would cash the cheque. It was Saturday and the banks were closed.

TODAY'S RECIPE

HONEY BEETS

Three cups cooked beets, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons honey, ½ cup water, ½ cup vinegar.

Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and honey, stirring constantly. Gradually add water and vinegar. Cook until slightly thickened, about 5 minutes. Add beets, and re-heat.

Six servings.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

She Feels Unattractive Because of Her Height

(The Friday Question Box) Q. "I have a complex about my height. I am 5 feet 10 inches tall. I have a pretty face (they tell me) and a good figure, but feel so unattractive because of my height."

A. DON'T! Many of today's most beautiful women are tall. Models, remember, are much taller than average. The important thing is not to allow this feeling of yours to make you slump. You can be stunning-looking if you carry yourself well. You also can lessen the impression of height with clothes. Use horizontal lines, belts of a different color from your outfit, and color contrasting skirts and tops.

Q. "My legs, arms, face and neck are a deep suntan. I do not think this will be flattering with winter clothes. How can I get rid of it without taking too long?"

A. Suntan just has to have time to fade out. There are products on the market which are mild bleaches. Cucumber juice and lemon juice are also. Unless your skin is very oily you should dilute the lemon juice before applying it.

Q. "I am 27 years of age and want to know if I can straighten my back at my age. Are there exercises which would do this?"

A. It would have been easier when younger but you can make a lot of improvement, and just as important, you can keep the condition from progressing. It will with age unless you take measures now. Your chest muscles probably have shortened and your back muscles weakened. Therefore do not become discouraged.

Do the following two exercises. Stand tall with your arms at your sides. Raise the arms forward, shoulder height, shoulder width apart. Do this in a relaxed manner. Now fling the arms sideward backward as far as comfortable.

Feel the pull? Return arms to forward position. Continue. Another: Take the end of a small rope in each hand, rope behind the body. Put the rope over a bedpost with your back toward the bed. Hold firmly to the rope as you let your body fall forward, knees stiff. Remain in this position for a short time. Bend your knees and stand erect. Continue.

Big Atom Police Role for Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada will be given a leading watchdog role in any globe-girdling atomic control system if the world powers decide to ban all nuclear tests, it was learned Thursday.

U.S. CLAIM

'We Can Spy On World From Moon'

THE HAGUE (AP)—A U.S. Congressman reported today that the United States has developed electronic equipment which can use the moon to "tell what is going on" on the entire surface of the earth.

"We can monitor the whole world," Republican Representative James G. Fulton of Pennsylvania told reporters after referring publicly to the moon system at the meeting here of the International Astronautical Federation.

"This equipment now is being installed," he said. "It uses the moon as an artificial satellite. It is startling. It is a great breakthrough."

Fulton hinted that the system could detect instantaneously nuclear explosions or launching of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Cuban Crews Work Former CNS Vessels

HALIFAX (CP)—Two former Canadian freighters lost their names Wednesday as Cuban crews went back to work for the new owners of what was once the Canadian National Steamships West Indies fleet.

Earlier one of the Cuban seamen said he and his mates would not work the ships since they were strikebound by the Seamen's International Union (CLC). He said the men did not know about the strike when brought here to work the ships.

ARROW BOOMS ALONG AT 1,000 MPH PLUS

OTTAWA (CP)—The bat-winged CF-105—Canada's only supersonic jet—hit its highest rate of speed Thursday, startling capital residents with a window-rattling sonic boom.

An air force spokesman said the CF-105, flying at 50,000 feet on a flight from Toronto, went well over 1,000 miles an hour. The exact speed was not revealed.

BRITANNIAS BEAT CLOCK

There Before They Start

LONDON (AP)—The Bristol Aircraft Company claimed Thursday night its turbo-prop Britannia airliner has become the first airliner to beat the clock on scheduled service across the Pacific from Japan to arrive at Vancouver at 4 p.m. local time the same day.

A Bristol spokesman explained that Britannias operated by Canadian Pacific Airlines leave Tokyo at 6 p.m. local time and

Atlas Hits Bullseye

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A 100-ton Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile blasted 3,000 miles through space Thursday night and hit right on target.

The second straight U.S. success with a fully-powered Atlas was a major stride toward the air force's goal of developing an operational ICBM within the next two years.

The 85-foot Atlas rose with a tremendous roar. The missile's flaming exhaust was seen in the clear night sky for more than four minutes.

The Atlas, powered by twin booster rockets and a sustainer engine generating a total of about 350,000 pounds of thrust, was equipped with a radio-command guidance system for the first time.

The command guidance assures greater on-target accuracy and permits continuous ground control during the powered phase of the flight. If signals indicate the missile has strayed from its programmed flight pattern an immediate automatic correction is applied to put the Atlas back on its prescribed course.
